A plan to ban Scenic Drive traffic

By MICHAEL R. GARDNER

SHOULD SCENIC DRIVE be closed to through traffic and become, instead, a scenic walkway for residents?

Carmel City Councilman David Maradei thinks so but he wants to know what Carmelites think before he asks the council to study limits on traffic and parking on Scenic Drive between Eighth and 13th avenues.

"I'm waiting for the community response to find out if people are interested in this kind of concept. I call it a concept because that means it is an open-ended proposal. A plan means it is not changeable," Maradei told the Pine Cone/Outlook Sept. 1.

"If the residents are interested in closing Scenic Drive down permanently or temporarily, such as one day a week or once a month, they should let their city representatives know," Maradei said.

"The residents must become involved with this process right from the beginning. The council has no intention of forcing an issue like this upon the residents without their consent."

Scenic Drive is an approximately three-mile stretch of road that parallels Carmel Beach and Carmel Point. It ends at the parking lot at the Carmel River lagoon.

Carmel only has jurisdiction over the approximately one-mile stretch in the city limits, which is from Eighth to Santa Lucia avenues. That section is also one-way for southbound traffic. The remaining two miles of Scenic Drive are in Montery County.

Maradei thinks the city should act to control noise and loitering along the parking areas of Scenic Drive.

"Following the Fourth of July restrictions, council members received several letters commenting on the joys of being on Scenic Drive without cars and loiterers," Maradei said.

"This is a feeling I share with these people. I would like to see Scenic Drive closed to traffic permanently and utilized as a scenic walkway for the enjoyment of all the residents."

The Carmel City Council banned parking on Scenic Drive on July 4 as a way to limit the crowds on the beach.

"In my opinion, closing Scenic Drive would solve many of the police problems, noise and garbage pollution and bank erosion that result from people who do not live in Carmel and who do not care what happens to our beach environment," Maradei said.

'Ah, Carmel!'

Dear Editor:

We have friends who live in another city as permanent residents, but spend many weeks of the year in their charming cottage in Carmel. May I quote from a recent letter?

"We had a tree removed from the backyard in Carmel on Sunday and the reaction was amazing. All the neighbors came out of the woodwork. Someone reported it to the police. They, the police, arrived (three of them) in two police cars completely blocking (blank) Street. They checked us out — OK — checked the tree cutting license of the tree-cutter — OK — they left — soon came back and dashed into the yard to arrest the tree cutter on an outstanding warrant.

"They stood around while he finished cutting the tree — then bundled him into the police car and roared off. About an hour later they brought him back. Seems his dog was running loose in Carmel a few months ago so he got a $10 citation. Then his dog ran away and hasn't returned, so he said 'To hell with it' and didn't pay the fine. By the time they 'got' him — it was up to $40, which he finally paid and he's now a free man."

Ah, Carmel!!!

Send 'em to Arcata?

Charlotte Townsend, Mayor
City of Carmel
Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh Streets
Carmel, California 93921

Dear Mayor Townsend:

In the spirit of small city cooperation, the city of Arcata offers its resources to the city of Carmel (re: The Carmel Crush, Chronicle, Aug. 17, 1982).

Carmel and Arcata have many similarities and a few subtle differences. Arcata features miles of beach, private coves, seals, whale watching; redwood forests; historic victorians and bungalows; multitude of fine artists and craftspeople; more than enough restaurants; street lights and sidewalks for the skittish tourists; a cheap souvenir shop where one can buy a post card (we are ready to develop a few more).

Our unemployment rate is in excess of 11.3 percent (Arcata/June '82) and the labor pool is diverse, trained and ready to go to work; a newish freeway bringing us within six hours of the bay area.

Realizing it would be unhospitable to literally discourage visitors from Carmel, we propose that Carmel establish a small budget to promote tourism in Arcata. No one would even have to know who pays for the advertising.

This promotional effort could help solve our mutual tourism problems. We will happily send you photos, maps and tourist guides — or perhaps some visiting Arcatans to help set up this project.

Please let us know if we can work together.

With great anticipation,

Arcata City Council:
Mayor Sam Pennisi; Mayor Pro-tem Julie Fulkerson; Council Members Victor Green, Steve Leiker, and Thea Gast.

Challenges Kelly statement

Dear Editor:

In an article on the freeway controversy in your issue of Aug. 26, 1982, Michael Kelly is quoted as stating that the Ventana Chapter, Sierra Club, favors the Hatton Canyon Freeway because "Most of the board of directors of the Sierra Club are against rescinding the Hatton Canyon Freeway because their back yards are up against Highway 1."

There are 10 members of the executive committee ("board of directors") of the Ventana Chapter. One lives in Santa Cruz. Two live in Salinas. Three live in Monterey. One lives in Tierra Grande. One lives in Carmel Valley. One lives on Atherton Drive, Carmel, some distance from Highway 1. I live on Martin Road, Carmel, the only ExCom member residing anywhere near Highway 1. I may hope only that Mr. Kelly's other statements are more accurate than the one just quoted.

It can't happen here?

Dear Editor:

One week ago, a young film cutter — modeling for the final fittings of a fashion show I intend to share very soon — had her bulging red leather pouch stolen. We told the sheriff that he or she may keep the money, but to please return the passport and address book because her sprawling large family all over the world have private numbers. Her medical prescriptions were rather vital as well, but a call to her Beverly Hills doctor (on vacation) could have replaced those.

The young maiden became very stoic-looking, quite beautiful — green-eyed, long, long hair — saying that she wouldn't have thought that could happen in such a lovely place as Carmel Valley.

She is the daughter of Stewart Granger and Jean Simmons; many of my clients are professionals and I pray we can keep them visiting Carmel and helping to make our fashion influence felt and shared.

I look forward to your reproachful comment on the morals of not returning personal numbers. The cash can be shared, but a brother in Peru is hard to find.

Thankful for Panetta

Dear Editor:

Thank you, Richard Arnold, for representing yourself (Pine Cone/Outlook letters, Aug. 26) as the type of politician the 16th Congressional District, this state, and the nation have learned to distrust.

You can misconstrue facts, use fear tactics (ie., "Hitler Style Youth Corps"), generalize and even sling a little mud (suggesting that Leon Panetta was in Las Vegas for reasons other than meeting with national officials of Hospice) but you won't convince informed citizens of both parties who respond to the issues.

How thankful I am that we have the opportunity to re-elect a man of integrity with strong leadership qualities and a record that so clearly serves the best interest of our district.

Carmel City Council gets down to serious business

By AL EISNER

THE CARMEL City Council elected six months ago is getting down to the serious business of governing. And, the three new members are beginning to find out that their job isn't easy.

Past meetings of the city's legislative body have been described as bizarre, comical, unreal, etc. Tuesday night's meeting was anything but unreal. To the contrary. The council began to dig in to deal with some tough questions that were left unanswered by past councils.

In addition — and perhaps most encouraging — the council is showing signs that it is sensitive to the wishes of the people they govern. (For a summary of action at the meeting see page 20.)

The most explosive issue was defused quickly when the council took up the question of the joint venture parking lot which had attracted a lot of attention in recent weeks. Indeed, it was at the request two weeks ago of this newspaper and two of the councilmen that a decision on the controversial issue was delayed so that it could be publicized and the sentiment of the people assessed.

Councilman Frank Lloyd, who had appeared undecided earlier, said he had received numerous phone calls, and that not one single person he heard from was in favor of the project. Council members Maradei and Arnold also reported that the community appeared to be solidly opposed to the scheme. Councilman Stephenson, who was an ardent supporter of the parking garage, backed down in the face of unanimous opposition from the public. Only Mayor Charlotte Townsend voted in favor of the two-story garage.

I don't think I'd be accused of flogging a dead horse if I note that the council came within a whisker two weeks ago of approving the contract with the Pine Inn for the parking garage. As a matter of fact, it might have done so if it hadn't discovered that the contract did not include construction of the slab as part of the foundation for the proposed library annex which would be built on top of the garage.

The council is to be commended for acting prudently. Now, perhaps, we can all proceed calmly to approach the parking situation within the context of the new general plan which is now being formulated.

THIRTEEN members of the Little family strode to the front of the council chambers Tuesday night to plead their case for the reconstruction of the Carmel Sands motel and Simpson's restaurant on the corner of San Carlos and Fifth. Long-time Carmelite Bob Little shepherded his children and grandchildren and pleaded with the council to overturn a decision by the planning commission to stand pat on and not change the zoning laws to allow the Littles to demolish and rebuild their motel and restaurant.

It was quite a dramatic moment. Little's voice cracked and he wept while recounting the years of hard work and planning that the family had devoted to the business. Although visibly moved, the individual members of the council stood firm in their opposition to changing the law before the new general plan is adopted.

Two other matters were dealt with at some length before I began to doze. The council is still holding out on whether to join the rest of the peninsula cities in the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District to allow a vote on construction of a new dam. Several members of the council said unabashedly that they favored controlling growth by limiting water supplies.

The proposal by George Brook-Kothlow to remodel the Dock Lor Cantonese restaurant on Ocean near Mission was also reconsidered. Brook-Kothlow wants to open a "residentially-oriented" cafe with the blessings of landlord Dick Bruhn.

The council is obviously considering whether anyone can operate a "residentially-oriented" restaurant on Ocean Avenue.

In all of these matters, the council kept referring to the desirability of retaining the residential character of the village. But there is a new sense of urgency to their deliberations. The struggle to protect Carmel has attracted nationwide publicity in recent weeks.

It is encouraging that the new council is willing to tackle tough issues, and that the style and tone of the meetings is one of conciliation rather than confrontation.

Carmel teachers return to work without a contract

TEACHERS IN the Carmel Unified School District returned to work yesterday, Sept. 8, without a contract.

Contract talks have been postponed "by mutual consent" until Sept. 20 when enrollment figures stabilize and staff ratios are complete, Supt. William Rand told the Pine Cone/Outlook Sept. 3.

The decision to postpone contract talks for the district's 110 teachers came after a nine and one-half hour bargaining session Aug. 30, Rand said.

Teachers have asked trustees for a 14 percent pay increase, which would cost the district an estimated $657,000. Rand has estimated that it costs the district $50,000 for each 1 percent across-the-board pay hike.

Representatives of the board of education and the Carmel Teachers Association had hoped to reach an agreement before the final budget was adopted. Trustees approved a $7 million final budget Sept. 2.

Representatives for the classified staff told trustees earlier that they did not want to hold contract talks until mid-September. Classified staff members entered the second year of a two-year contract this fall. The classified staff is allowed to negotiate for a pay increase in the middle of the contract period, under provisions in the agreement.

Figures in the budget indicate the district has a beginning balance of just $222,000.

Councilman Maradei wants to close Scenic Drive to through traffic and open it to pedestrians

A JOGGER on Scenic Drive must battle parked cars and traffic in pursuit of health.

'THE MAJORITY of the people that congregate on Scenic and park their cars are young people who do not live in Carmel, but who use our beach as a congregating point," Maradei said.

"These people are welcome to use our beach because ours is a public beach. But the use turns to abuse when undesirable elements are brought into a community that has no part in their making and that community is forced to suffer the consequences of the abuse. That is not fair to the community or the property owners on Scenic Drive, " Maradei said.

Maradei pointed out is a correlation between the problems at the beach and the cars.

"It's my opinion that if you separate youth from their vehicles they will find another place to congregate," he said.

Carmel Police Capt. Robert Fischer said the number of problems at the beach has increased in the past decade.

"Personally, and not speaking for the department, I frankly feel that if Scenic was blocked off, the parking would just move up to San Antonio and Carmelo (avenues)," Fischer said. "The problems would then decidedly affect the people in those areas.

"If it could be worked out, I would like to see a mall made out of it. What I want to see is a nice place for people to walk. We have people who now must walk in the middle of the street," Captain Fischer told the Pine Cone/Outlook.

"As a partial solution, I would suggest no parking on Twelfth south."

Many of the problems are caused by young people who stay with their cars, play loud music, drink and often times deal in drugs, Fischer said.

"They like to park on Thirteenth because they can see the squad cars coming," he said. "It is not so convienent for them north of Twelfth."

Maradei admits it would not be easy to close Scenic Drive permanently, although he says it would eliminate a lot of police problems.

"I'm a realist and I don't believe the community is ready to completely give up their access to the beach at this time," he said.

"Perhaps we can try shutting down Scenic Drive one day a month or one day a week so we can view the consequences of such an action.

"If we closed it down on a trial basis, we could see the problems. If the problems created are greater than the original problem, the council could simply reopen the road to full public access," Maradei said.

"It would be naive of me to think that there won't be any problems created by shutting off Scenic Drive. But we shouldn't just sit here and do nothing. The only way to effect solutions is to create changes."

Maradei said there would be "many mechanical problems" to work out before Scenic Drive could be closed.

The city could limit traffic to residents only by barricading the entrance at Eighth Avenue, Maradei suggested. Residents could enter to the north on Thirteenth Avenue, although vehicles technically would be traveling the wrong way.

"The major problem is the concept, not the enactment of the concept," Maradei said.

•

THERE IS ALSO some question whether the city could legally ban traffic from Scenic Drive.

City Atty. George Brehmer said he would recommend against the plan.

"I would be of the opinion that the city could not close down the street. In some instances it can be closed, but I don't think the city could make it a private roadway," Brehmer told this newspaper.

Brehmer said his opinion is based on the recent California Supreme Court ruling that a traffic circulation plan by the city of Berkeley is illegal.

Berkeley officials used barriers to route traffic away from residential streets. The state Supreme Court ruled that a city can not ban access to public streets if the city uses state funds to maintain those roads.

Brehmer said he is uncertain whether the city could close the area on an infrequent basis, such as the ban on parking July Fourth.

"I think the city's decision to close it off July Fourth was a decision made as an emergency measure," he said. "I would have to consider the purpose of closing it down once a month. I would need to look at it some more. The court decision was not so exacting in regulating the city laws in that respect."

Brehmer's legal opinion fails to daunt Maradei.

"I think we should investigate all alternatives. Obviously Mr. Brehmer is in a better position than I and has more knowledge on the legal aspects," Maradei said.

"I would suppose that a city that wanted to protect its beach for environmental reasons could find a way. We're not restricting access. It would be almost like a no parking zone."

The legal ramifications of closing Scenic Drive to traffic were also cited by several other city officials.

•

'WE HAVEN'T looked at that kind of proposal in depth," City Administrator Doug Peterson said. "We do have a court case to take into consideration with the Berkeley closing of its streets. It (the case) is related to a closure of any public street."

Mayor Charlotte Townsend said she is uncertain whether to support Maradei's plan. "I don't know. I want to wait and hear the staff reports and (hear) from the forestry commission."

City Forester Greg D'Ambrosio said he has not formed an opinion.

"I haven't given the traffic pattern much thought. I have no opinion one way or the other right now."

"In my opinion, closing Scenic Drive would solve many of the police problems, noise and garbage pollution and bank erosion that result from people who do not live in Carmel and who do not care what happens to our beach environment," Maradei said.

Carmel Forestry Commission Chairman Matt Smith does not think the city can close a public street.

"It is a public street and as long as we accept state gasoline tax monies, I think we have to keep it open. You can't just close it down," Smith told the Pine Cone/Outlook.

Smith favors closure of Scenic Drive to traffic once a month or week "if it is possible legally and financially. I'm absolutely amazed at the way cutting off the traffic on the Fourth of July worked. The reaction by the residents was all positive," Smith said.

Roberta Watson, treasurer of the 70-member Scenic Road Property Owners Association, said it would be "selfish" to close the drive to traffic."

"Many of us feel it would be a shame to deny the public access," she said. "The people who can't walk very far wouldn't be able to enjoy it. I feel it would be selfish to close it down."

But Mrs. Watson added that residents near Thirteenth Avenue would probably like to see it closed.

"I live closer to Eighth and we don't have that many problems. There are more problems with parking, drinking and drugs near Thirteenth. It's a zoo down there.

"I would say many of them would like it closed because they feel it will eliminate the drugs and speeding," Mrs. Watson said. She has lived on Scenic Drive for eight years.

Mrs. Watson said most of those who park across from her house are surfers. "My children surf and I like the surfers. They have never given us any problems," she said.

Perry Bower, who has lived on Scenic Drive for five years, favors Maradei's proposal.

"Personally, I would be in favor of it," he said. "Down here on the Fourth of July, I think it was wonderful seeing families able to walk on Scenic together and enjoy the view and the beach."

A RANDOM survey of those who enjoyed a rare quiet afternoon on Scenic Drive Sept. 2 indicated a difference of opinion over the proposal. Overcast weather and the fact that it was the middle of the week seemed to contribute to a quieter-than-normal Scenic Drive.

"I feel sorry for the people who live on Scenic. I'm sure they're entitled to some privacy," Muriel Powers told the Pine Cone/Outlook. The Carmel woman enjoyed a picnic lunch inside a car parked facing the beach.

"I'm enjoying it now, but I'd just as soon get out and walk and have the picnic on a bench. I think it would be nice. It would keep the drug users and surfers out who cause some of the problems and who are noisy," she added.

Mrs. Powers was joined for lunch by The Rev. Allan R. Wolter of the All Saints Episcopal Church in Carmel Valley.

"I would like to see it closed down and I would like to see a tram put in," Rev. Wolter suggested. "The tram could run from the two ends. People could put 50 cents in to help pay the costs. The older people who can't walk far could then enjoy the beach."

Mary Gingras, a Monterey resident and Monterey Peninsula College student, is against the proposal. Miss Gingras worked this summer at the Tourist Information Bureau in Carmel.

"I always told people to take this drive or the one in Pebble Beach. It is so beautiful," she said. "First of all, I don't know why anyone would want to close it. I do not see a lot of traffic.

"People who drink here are going to drink, whether it is here or somewhere else," she said. The cops are here enough to keep things from getting out of hand. The tourists just wouldn't come down here if they had to walk that far. The beach is one of the things that draws them to Carmel."

Miss Gingras, who read a book in her parked car, said she comes to Carmel Beach about three times a week.

Dennis Zarrow of Carmel, who also read in his car, is in favor of closing Scenic Drive to traffic.

"I think it's a great idea. The traffic situation is already so bad in town," he said. "They shut it down on the Fourth and it was really nice to ride my bike here with no cars. I wish I could do the same thing all of the time."

Carmel Valley resident Joe Danielson has some ideas of his own.

"I thought for years they should block off Ocean Avenue, tear out the asphalt and have a grass lawn to walk on," he said. "You could build parking to the north or south, but not let the cars on Ocean."

DANIELSON SAID he likes Maradei's proposal, but believes it is unrealistic.

"The cars would just move up on San Antonio. It would intrude on their property and privacy. My God, where would we put all of those cars?" he asked. "If there was a solution to where the parking would be, I would favor it. It's just not feasible. The idea is good, but the logic just isn't there."

Kim Fletcher, a former Carmel resident who now lives in San Luis Obispo, agreed with Danielson.

"I agree with him 100 percent," he said. "I like Scenic. I was here for seven years. Everyone drinks down here, not just the kids. I see families down here with a bottle of wine enjoying the sunset," he said.

Salinas resident Ron Castillo, who comes to Carmel Beach about once a month to surf, is against the idea.

"No, I don't like it. It would be the pits. It would be hard to find parking spaces. We would have to park far away and carry all that stuff," Castillo said.

Friend Rob Dunham, also of Salinas, agreed. "I think it is ridiculous. I've never heard anything like that before. We don't bother the neighbors. It's so crowded at the foot of Ocean Avenue that we would never find a place to park," he said.

"It's dumb," said Casey Castillo.

Big decrease in demand for water predicted for peninsula by 2020

By ROBERT MISKIMON

DEMAND for water on the Monterey Peninsula will be about 20 percent less than anticipated by the year 2020.

Monterey Peninsula Water Management District directors will receive that news when they meet at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Sept. 13 in Monterey City Hall.

The information is contained in an updated demand projection provided by the Recht, Hausrath consulting firm which predicted two years ago that water demand would reach 33,400 ac. ft. by the year 2020.

Because of the economic downturn and planning changes, the demand is now expected to reach only 27,000 ac. ft. annually within the next 38 years, Manager Bruce Buel told the Pine Cone/Outlook.

"When the original projections were made in 1980, it was assumed that Monterey II would be built and that Carmel Valley would develop," Buel said. "But because of general plan amendments, plant closures, and other factors there will be less development.

"The result is that we now expect to be using 6,000 ac. ft. per year less water in 2020 than we expected," Buel said. An acre foot is the amount of water required to fill an acre to a depth of one foot, or 325,851 gallons. Annual productive capacity of California-American Water Co. is 20,000 ac. ft.

"This new projection may significantly change the board's concept of what should be proposed in the water project," Buel said. "The board may want to re-examine the dam proposal in terms of what needs to be done."

The board of directors has authorized initial work toward preparation of an environmental impact report for a proposed dam on the upper Carmel River with 29,000 ac. ft. storage capacity.

That proposal tentatively has been targeted to go to voters in mail ballots in summer or fall of 1983, with a scheme to store additional water underground in Seaside, and a water conservation program. Total cost of the three-part program is estimated at $80 million, with $77 million for the dam.

"This new projection may significantly change the board's concept of what should be proposed in the water project," Buel said. "The board may want to re-examine the dam proposal in terms of what needs to be done."

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors recently adopted a water allocation formula which prohibits new residential subdivisions in unincorporated areas of the Monterey Peninsula — including Carmel Valley — until more water supplies become available.

Water consumption in the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District was 78.1 percent of the 20,000 ac. ft. from Cal-Am Water Co. allocated to cities and to the county — or about 15,600 ac. ft. — according to a staff report to be presented to directors Sept. 13.

CARMEL used 92.97 percent of its 1,109 ac. ft. allocation in that time, said Frances Krebs, staff analyst. That's less than the 93.5 percent Carmel used in the previous fiscal year. Carmel is allocated 5.545 percent of the total 20,000 ac. ft. supply.

The board of directors also is to consider whether to amend its allocation formula if the Carmel Sanitary District water reclamation project proceeds as planned. That $18.2 million plan would recycle highly-treated waste water for golf course irrigation, and would save about 600 ac. ft. of water per year by 1985, Buel said.

The additional water could be allocated entirely to Monterey County, which would then be subject to further allocation by the board of supervisors. Or it could be allocated based on how much jurisdictions pay for the reclamation project, Buel said.

The second formula would produce an additional 350 ac. ft. per year for Monterey County and another 250 ac. ft. per year for the city of Carmel, Buel said. A third possibility would be to distribute the additional water based on current allocations. This would provide Carmel with 33 ac. ft. of additional water per year; Monterey County would receive an additional 210 ac. ft. per year and the remainder would be apportioned among other cities, Buel said.

In other business, the board is scheduled to set an Oct. 11 date for a protest hearing on a proposed Carmel River management program. The board plans to place the program on a mail ballot to property owners and residents within the zone in January.

If more than 50 percent of the land owners, holding more than 50 percent of the total assessed valuation of property within the proposed zone, protest the project it will die without an election, Buel said. The board must hold an election unless the zone is defeated at the protest hearing, he added.

Directors are to receive a description of the river management zone boundaries and a scope of work proposal devised by Henderson & Nichols of Richmond. There are 468 riverfront properties which would be included in the zone which stretches 14 miles from the mouth of the Carmel River to Klondike Canyon, Buel indicated.

The $150,000-per-year program would be financed by an assessment of 35 cents per linear foot for riverfront property owners — subject to voter approval — and by water use charges levied without an election on all Cal-Am customers. The use fee would amount to $1.80 per year for the average residence, Buel said.

Revenues would be used to pay for planting of river vegetation, erosion control, and bank stabilization efforts on the river.

A TOTAL of $45,000 would be raised by assessments on riverfront properties, and the remaining $105,000 would come from district-wide use fees, Buel said.

A mail survey conducted last March by the district showed "60 percent support among riverfront property owners for the project," Buel said. Three hundred surveys were sent to voters throughout the watershed; about 80 of the 468 riverfront dwellers were surveyed.

'The results along the river showed that 61 percent said they would support and pay for the project; 17 percent were opposed; and 22 percent were undecided.'

"The results along the river showed that 61 percent said they would support and pay for the project; 17 percent were opposed; and 22 percent were undecided," Buel said.

Directors also are scheduled to receive results of further tests of a scheme to inject water for additional storage underground in Seaside. Tests were to determine the rate at which underground injection wells could pump water into the Seaside aquifer.

A second round of tests with an injection well on Plumas Lane in Seaside, conducted by hydrology consultant John Logan of Carmel, has indicated a pumping potential of 180 gallons per minute — close to the hoped-for 200 gallons per minute, Buel said.

"The tests have shown that it is feasible to inject water into the southern Seaside area," he said. "It will be more expensive to do it than we thought, but our report concludes it is feasible. We may need more and larger wells."

The district hopes to be able to pump between 1,000 and 2,000 ac. ft. of excess winter water from the Canada de la Segunda pipeline to Carmel Valley for storage in Seaside. There is a potential to store an additional 9,000 ac. ft. of water in the Seaside aquifer, which could be added to the total water supply of the district.

CONTROL of bank erosion, such as occurred last winter above the Schulte Road bridge (above), is one of the goals of a $150,000-per-year river management program proposed by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District. If riverfront dwellers approve of a 35-cent per linear foot charge to finance the program, replanting of river vegetation would begin as a means to stabilize threatened banks.

Carmelo School to house Carmel River CCC crew

CARMELO SCHOOL will be "home" for a dozen California Conservation Corps workers who will clear debris from the Carmel River between Sept. 13 to Oct. 15.

Trustees of the Carmel Unified School District approved an agreement with the state Sept. 2 which permits the CCC crew to live in the school for about one month.

The school has been closed by the board of education because of an enrollment decline, coupled with decreased revenues.

Carmel River Watch — the citizen organization dedicated to preservation of the Carmel River — has spearheaded efforts to get the CCC to perform channel clearance.

Darby Worth, CREW president, worked through Kevin LaGraff, administrative aide to Sen. Henry Mello (D-17th), to secure the CCC crew. Once approval was granted by the state, housing for the youthful workers presented a problem, Mrs. Worth explained.

"This will be a true community effort, and we're calling on all the restaurants, hotels and businesses to help with food, snacks and recreation for the the CCC while they're here," she told the Pine Cone/Outlook.

The California Conservation Corps workers will concentrate their efforts on a stretch of the river near Schulte Road bridge heavily damaged by erosion last winter. They will gather and dispose of trees and other debris which has accumulated in the channel, and which promotes further bank erosion, Mrs. Worth said.

Carmel River Watch hopes the cleanup effort will be assisted by Dr. Robert Curry, the University of California geologist who has studied the Carmel River for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, Mrs. Worth said.

The CCC will provide its own sleeping and cooking facilities but there is a need for community donations of refreshment for the workers during the day, while they are working in the river, she added.

Carmel Unified School District Supt. William Rand said the board of education agreed to permit the CCC workers to use the vacant Carmelo School building on Carmel Valley Road without charge "as a gesture on the part of the community to help the river work.

"We will give them a portion of the school where the kitchen and washing facilities are located," Rand said. "They'll provide their own food and sleeping arrangements."

Carmel River Watch sought state assistance to perform the channel clearance when it was disclosed that no local governmental agency — including the Monterey County Flood Control and Water Conservation District — had the approximately $25,000 required for the work.

Mrs. Worth said this is by far the most ambitious project ever undertaken by the nonprofit Carmel River Watch, and she appealed for the support and involvement of all concerned about erosion of the Carmel River.

Those who want to contribute should contact Darby Worth at 624-7494, or Pat Bernardi at 625-1354.

River walk scheduled Sept. 12

Carmel River Watch, the citizen organization concerned with river restoration, will sponsor a river walk Sept. 12.

The walk will cover a stretch of the Carmel River heavily damaged by erosion during last winter's storms.

Participants should meet at 8:45 a.m. at 18 Scarlett Rd. to shuttle to Schulte Road bridge. The walk will be from Schulte Road bridge to Scarlett Road.

"Bring a snack and wear heavy duty shoes," advised Darby Worth, CREW president. The public is invited to participate.

Development transfer scheme raises many unanswered questions

By ROBERT MISKIMON

ALMOST BEFORE it was drafted, a scheme to preserve prime coastal lands in Big Sur through the Local Coastal Program was an object of heated controversy.

The proposal — known as a transfer of development credit system — was worked out by Fourth District Monterey County Supervisor Michal Moore, with consultant Peter Bass of the Coastal Conservancy.

The idea is a fairly sophisticated notion that property owners with scenic coastal land set aside in the LCP for conservation may sell their development rights to be used in other areas where a higher density of development is allowed.

In theory, at least, it sounds reasonable. The system would let county government off the legal hook for having "confiscated" private property and having denied property owners' rights. It would also save government huge sums of money that would be required to purchase lands for open space preservation. And, the argument goes, the transfer of development credit system preserves the workings of the free enterprise system.

The reality of the concept, however, has proven to be something altogether different. Since Supervisor Moore's scheme has been under review by the Monterey County Planning Commission, it has been attacked by the public and commissioners alike as impossibly complicated and unworkable.

There are many, serious questions about the proposal, and particularly the way in which it would operate in Big Sur. One of the most troubling questions is the way in which density credits are assigned.

The Moore proposal would assign density credits based on acreage. This is relatively simple and straightforward, but it ignores differences in property values. A more equitable — and certainly more complex — way to assign values would be to base them on assessed valuation of properties.

There is a question whether a TDC (transfer of development credit) is a security, within the meaning of the law. If, in fact, development credits are the equivalent of securities, a whole new legal can of worms confronts the county in its efforts to promote land coservation in Big Sur.

Even those who have worked closely with the TDC proposal and the coastal planning process are unclear about how the TDC system would articulate with the Big Sur Local Coastal Program. There are many unanswered questions about so-called "receiver sites" where higher densities would be permitted. Could, in fact, TDCs be transferred outside the Big Sur area to the Carmel area?

Some Big Sur property owners fearful about government "intervention" in their lives, seem to believe that the TDC system is a cleverly-devised mechanism to allow the Coastal Conservancy to encroach on individual rights and on the free market system. While that view may be a little far-fetched, it does express the uncertainty which many feel about the whole TDC-coastal planning process.

There are other ways to proceed. A point system, by which proposed developments are ranked in terms of compatibility with the goals of the Big Sur TDC and the Coastal Act, seems like one reasonable alternative.

Others efforts at land conservation are going ahead without a TDC system. The Big Sur Land Trust has a good track record of helping to put scenic coastal lands in open space conservation. Assemblyman Sam Farr has succeeded in getting some $4 million budgeted for more park acquisitions in the Big Sur Area. And the work of the Coastal Conservancy in preserving prime Big Sur lands continues without a working TDC program.

Perhaps the transfer of development credit system can and will work. But it seems dubious. If the proposal is to be made feasible, a lot more effort will have to go into simplication and clarification of how the whole system would work, and how it would affect not only property owners but the entire shape of the Big Sur coastal plan.

The Conscience of Carmel

Highway 1 should be widened before a freeway is considered

By GUNNAR NORBERG

AFTER THE Sept. 1 meeting of the Monterey County Transportation-Commission — in the hallway outside the conference room where the Commission had just adjourned over in Salinas — people both opposed and in favor of a freeway through the Hatton Canyon stopped to talk.

When I told an ardent supporter of the Hatton Canyon Freeway that roadway would simply open the door wide to yearning big and little developers who would badger county officials into a still greater despoilation of the flood-prone lands at the entrance to the Carmel Valley, his answer was that those shopping center acres are already becoming our 'Daly City by the River,' and that pragmatically any effort to stop or slow their desecration can only be futile.

If through the years I— along with hundreds, sometimes thousands — would have been willing to lie down and play dead in the face of what could easily have been construed to be such formidable destructive forces that any effort to block them could only have been doomed to failure, that so-called 'Daly City by the River' might have had at least two sizeable hostelries (Meharry and Rio Road motels) on residentially zoned property.

Across the Carmel River on Odello artichoke lands there could today have been a 600-room hotel west of Highway 1 and a 300-room hotel east of that roadway, along with much other development if concerned citizens had not been aroused and if they had not acted upon their convictions.

And just up the Carmel Valley Road from Daly City by the River' might have been a 376-room Marriott-related hotel.

Many other examples could be cited of developer efforts which have been blunted through determined action by concerned citizens who did not consider their opposition either foolish or futile. There has been, and there continues, effort made to destroy irreplaceable characteristics of the world-famous Carmel area environment. Unfortunately, sadly, such effort all too often succeeds.

However, it is too much to be willing to provide to unfeeling, greedy developers such an enormous open sesame as a $17-million Hatton Canyon Freeway and thus shatter the slight bottleneck effect which has helped hold back at least some destructive over-development.

There is no need for such a massive and environmentally damaging road project as the Hatton Canyon Freeway would inevitably be. Nor should there ever be such a need if concerned citizenry would be willing on a more regular basis to stand tall and resolute against at least the largest and most destructive development proposals. (Approval of the VOTE proposal which will be on the November ballot could provide a framework for a citizen bulwark against senseless overdevelopment — not only in the unincorporated Carmel area but elsewhere in Monterey County.

Readers will no doubt say there is great congestion of traffic along the present Highway 1 at certain times and at certain places. The extent to which that requires relief is mainly a subjective matter, except, perhaps, between Ocean Avenue and the Carmel Valley Road intersection. The California Department of Transportation (Cal-Trans) keeps track of vehicle movements and accident ratios along state roads. Cal-Trans said in its latest detailed report that "the ac-

Carmel inches toward Scenic walk

By MICHAEL R. GARDNER

THE CITY of Carmel appears to be inching its way slowly toward realization of a long-stalled Carmel Beach erosion control scheme and a Scenic Drive walkway.

Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson told the Pine Cone/Outlook Sept. 2 that he will probably present a status report on the two projects to the city council "in early October."

The proposals have been under study by city staff since January. The council previously granted conceptual approval to the two plans but final approval was delayed until a complete report is presented by Peterson.

"It's still here. We've got Pine Inn parking lot and Piccadilly (Park) before us," Peterson said. "We're moving on a number of fronts, but that one has dropped back somewhat. I may have something in early October."

Mayor Charlotte Townsend wants action on the two projects.

"This is something I've been pushing because I feel it is of vital importance. I will give it my closest attention after the Sept. 7 council meeting."

Forestry Commission Chairman Matt Smith is unhappy over the delays. Asked when he thinks work could begin, Smith said: "I wish I could give you an answer. It's gone on for years. Really the thing rests right now with staff. It's hung up right now with the staff."

'I wish I could give you an answer. It's gone on for years. Really, the thing rests right now with staff. It's hung up right now with the staff.'

The forestry commission has recommended that the city move forward with the two projects. The 1982-83 Carmel budget includes $100,000 for the work.

Forestry commissioners want the city to construct an approximately one-mile long walkway along Scenic Drive between Eighth Street and Santa Lucia. Scenic extends farther south, but that portion of the road is under county jurisdiction.

The commission has recommended that the city contract with a private firm to build a rock wall to halt erosion at the base of the embankment between Tenth and Eleventh avenues. The stairway would also be rebuilt.

"July Fourth of 1978 was very, very bad at the beach. I went down there and when I came back, I decided something had to be done," Smith said. "It was mostly the crowds of people that caused the trouble. We had a bunch of public hearings. Out of those public hearings came the continuous question: 'Why can't the residents walk on Scenic and enjoy the beach?'"

SMITH SAID the walkway would provide a safe path for visitors and help limit beach bank erosion.

"One of the big problems we have is people going down the banks to the beach and creating their own paths. More people use the paths and it damages the plants," Smith told the Pine Cone/Outlook.

A walkway would steer visitors to the stairways, he said. "Many people do not realize there are stairways nearby because they can't see them. By following the path, they would lead to the stairs."

Smith said the city parking ban on Scenic Drive for the Fourth of July has reinforced his belief that a walkway is necessary.

"That really surprised me no end. It was so nice to walk without the danger of cars and the crowds," he said.

City Councilman David Maradei, who served on the forestry commission for one year before his election to the council last April, has suggested that the city consider a ban on all traffic along Scenic Drive. (See related story, this issue).

Maradei is uncertain whether to support the beach walkway plan over a proposal to ban traffic on Scenic Drive.

"It would be an expensive addition

($25,000)," he said. "It's expensive and I don't know if we would get that much result out of it."

Maradei agrees that a walkway would help limit erosion on the beach banks.

"People would not use the proper access points to the beach. What they would do was go down the beach banks," he said. "They destroy young vegetation and create a pathway that other people see and use.

"Also, people with their dogs exercise them by throwing sticks and balls and the dogs run up and down the banks. This causes a tremendous destruction of young vegetation."

The 70-member Scenic Road Property Owners Association favors the project, treasurer Roberta Watson said.

"We are in favor of it. No doubt about it. A walkway would give us a nice, pleasant place to walk without fear of being hit by cars," she said.

The walkway would eliminate about 24 parking spaces, which would tend to decrease traffic, Mrs. Watson added.

Elizabeth Stimson, a member of the organization, said: "We have been bringing it up for a long time about the traffic on Scenic Drive. What we are trying to do is get a walkway. With all of the cars, it is nearly impossible to walk safely."

"We're very much in favor of the walkway," association member Perry Bower said. "It's very difficult to walk on the street. The cars are parked bumper to bumper so we can't walk on the right side near the curb so we have to walk in the traffic lane."

Information available in library on Rancho San Carlos development

By CHARLOTTE TOWNSEND

THE OWNER and developer of Rancho San Carlos has sent me a copy of a letter accompanying the "detailed development plan to be kept by your (Harrison Memorial) library."

This he has done at my suggestion. The land in question comprises 20,000 acres, three times the size of the Del Monte Forest. Mr. Oppenheimer goes on to say: "Although our development is 15 miles away from Carmel, many of your citizens will be interested in this new area of development concentration. We hope to develop this property in an environmentally sensitive manner . . ." And further, "we welcome input from all living in the area. Only with this input will our plan meet the needs and wishes of the people for many years to come."

Both the library and city hall will have Mr. Oppenheimer's address for direct questions or comments and I sincerely hope that many of you will take time to visit the library, study the plan, and make such comments. A developer who solicits citizen input should have it, and the sooner the better.

By the time you read this our next city council meeting will be over. Did you know that if you leave self-addressed, stamped envelopes at city hall, council agendas will be mailed to you as soon as they are out? In this manner it is possible to know in advance about items which are of particular interest to each of you and the council can receive your comments and suggestions before the meeting, or your attendence at that meeting will allow your views to be known,

There are many items of real importance being studied by the council at this time. The Pine Cone has given these broad in-depth coverage. And, as I continue to say, we really need your — the citizen's — input, in helping us to make very difficult decisions which will affect all of us.

It is hard to believe summertime is almost over. The days go by so quickly that is is easy to forget to pause, to take a look at the beauty around us. The sunsets lately have been unbelievably beautiful. Be sure to enjoy them if you possibly can.

Supervisors to hear Carmel LCP Sept. 14

THE MONTEREY COUNTY Board of Supervisors is scheduled to conduct a public hearing Sept. 14 on the revised Carmel Area Local Coastal Program before the document is re-submitted to the Coastal Commission.

The board of supervisors will hear public comment on the land use portion of the coastal plan at 1:30 p.m. in the county courthouse in Salinas.

The plan has been revised by Monterey County in response to conditions imposed by the Coastal Commission when it gave approval to the plan in April. Most major areas of disagreement between the county and the state appear to have been resolved.

'The TDC policy has been delaying the process,' Brown said. 'The county counsel has been looking into alternatives. There are several approaches to land conservation, from TDCs to outright purchase, to interim ordinances to limit development in the viewshed.'

"The hearing is to give final review to approved revisions to the Carmel Area land use plan with the intention of adopting the plan for resubmittal to the Coastal Commission for certification," according to the announcement of the public hearing.

One area of confusion which was clarified by the Coastal Commission at its August meeting involves development standards for the Odello Ranch south of the Carmel River.

The Coastal Commission reaffirmed its prior approval of a maximum of 162 homes on the 54 acres of the eastern Odello property adjacent to the Palo Corona slopes, with employee housing, a restaurant and farmer's market. Through a technical oversight, the LCP indicated approval for only 52 homes.

The county and the commission agree that the 162 residential units should be developed on that portion of the 134 eastern acres of the Odello Ranch outside the Carmel River floodplain.

The county plan apparently does not agree with a Coastal Commission staff recommendation for more public access to Malpaso Beach. The Coastal Commission staff has said the LCP should require vertical access to Malpaso beach as a condition of new development.

But the county plan states that "existing public access to Malpaso Beach should be protected. However, a substantial increase in use levels is not considered desirable and should not be encouraged."

Monterey County and the Coastal Commission staff apparently are in agreement that development on the Palo Corona Ranch should be limited to one unit per 40 acres, and should be located off the scenic, frontal slopes.

The county plan would permit development of as many as 816 new residential units and up to 400 new visitor-serving units in the unincorporated area around Carmel. That includes a proposal to develop 240 hotel units on the Hudson and Riley properties opposite Point Lobos.

THE COUNTY plan represents a synthesis of months of negotiations between the county and the commission, as well as numerous public hearings, according to Steve Slade, aide to Fifth District Supervisor William Peters of Carmel Valley.

"We held a long discussion with Coastal Commission people in Santa Cruz and decided to resubmit the whole plan," Slade told the Pine Cone/Outlook. "We still have some points of disagreement, like access to Malpaso Beach. We still have to beat them on that. Hopefully, this will be the last round."

The county plan would allow continued operation of 26 visitor-serving units and a dance hall at Mission Ranch — with issuance of a county use permit. The plan would allow a "clustered medium density" residential development of two to six units per acre, if the dance hall and other commercial and visitor-serving uses are abandoned.

The Carmel City Council, by resolution adopted Aug. 3, called on the board of supervisors to recognize only 14 visitor-serving units at Mission Ranch as legal, nonconforming units, and to specify R-1 (residential) zoning for the property.

The county plan designates the Mission Ranch property as a "special treatment" area, which includes a mixture of recreational and visitor-serving uses. Other areas so designated include the Odello Ranch, the frontal slopes of the 388-acre Palo Corona Ranch, the 466-acre Sawyer property, and the 1,600-acre Point Lobos Ranch.

Ed Brown, Coastal Commission district director, told the Pine Cone/Outlook that resubmittal of the plan by Monterey County means "another Coastal Commission hearing, clearly."

Also due for re-submittal to the Coastal Commission is the Big Sur Local Coastal Program, which was approved by the commission last September with conditions, then remanded to the county. One reason for the delay in re-submittal is a proposed transfer of development credit system proposed in the plan, Brown indicated.

"The TDC policy has been delaying the process," Brown said. "The county counsel VISITOR-SERVING units at Mission Ranch remain an area of disagreement between the city of Carmel and Monterey County in the latest draft of the Carmel Area Local Coastal Program. The Carmel City Council has requested that the LCP acknowledge only 14 visitor-serving units, but the plan prepared by the county would permit continued operation of as many as 26 visitor-serving units, with the property to revert to residential zoning if the present use is ever abandoned. The board of supervisors is to hold a public hearing on the LCP at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 21. (Mike Gardner photo).

Carmel appeal of Valley use permit to be Sept. 28

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors is to hear an appeal by the city of Carmel Sept. 28 of a use permit for construction of a 20,000 sq. ft. office building at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon approved a use permit May 13 to allow Paul Kagan and Associates of Carmel to build the office building at Nona Marie Avenue and Clock Tower Place in the Carmel Rancho Post Office subdivision.

The Carmel City Council decided May 17 to appeal the zoning administrator's decision on the basis that issuance of the use permit is a violation of a county-imposed moratorium on discretionary building in Carmel Valley until the Carmel Valley Master Plan is revised and readopted by the county.

The board of supervisors returned the matter to Slimmon for further findings to buttress the county position that the use permit was issued illegally. Slimmon said he has made supplemental findings "to substantiate approval based on the history of actions taken by the county since the first interim ordinance" which banned further development in the Valley.

Supervisors will conduct the public hearing at 11:30 a.m. in the county courthouse in Salinas. Carmel City Atty. George Brehmer is expected to argue the city's position that approval of any use permit for construction at the mouth of the Valley is prohibited by the court moratorium.

The Carmel City Council expressed to the board of supervisors in a letter last March 16 its belief that 16 of 27 zoning and use permits issued by the country since 1979 at the mouth of the Valley are in violation of the moratorium.

However, the council decided to appeal the Kagan use permit since it is the most recent of the approvals which — in the view of City Attorney Brehmer —violate the building moratorium.

Another hearing on Carmel LCP

has been looking into alternatives. There are several approaches to land conservation, from TDCs to outright purchase, to interim ordinances to limit development in the viewshed."

The Monterey County Planning Commission was scheduled to hold a continued public hearing Sept. 8 on the controversial transfer of development credit policy proposed by Fourth District Supervisor Michal Moore of Del Rey Oaks. Commissioners have expressed skepticism about the feasibility of the proposal and have decided to examine other approaches to land conservation in Big Sur.

A transfer of development credit system would permit owners of property in low-density scenic coastal areas to sell their development rights to be used in other areas designated for increased density.

Although the Monterey County Board of Supervisors approved the Del Monte Forest Local Coastal Program July 27, the plan has not yet been submitted to the Coastal Commission for public hearing, Brown said. Ray Lamb, senior Monterey County planner, said the LCP will be ready for submission toward the end of September.

Fund-raiser to be Oct. 2:

Carmel High Boosters keep athletics afloat

THE CARMEL High School Boosters, a club that Principal Marsha Kading calls "the life support system of the athletic program," will hold its initial fund raising event of the fall term next month.

The Fourth Annual Wine Taste and Silent Auction will be held Saturday, Oct. 2 at the Carmel Youth Center on the southwest corner of Torres Street and Fourth Avenue. The event will begin after the afternoon Padre football game with the King City Mustangs.

'The members of the Booster Club are the focal point of the program,' Mrs. Kading continued. 'We could not have our program without the Booster Club.'

Tickets to the event are now on sale for a $5 donation, which includes wine and hors d' oeuvres. Tickets are available by calling Bette Hinton at 625-0934, or at the door.

Items up for bid at the silent auction will include sports equipment, gift certificates to area stores and restaurants, and art work.

Persons who want to donate items for the auction may contact Mrs. Hinton or Carol Woodson at 625-1039.

Organizers of the event include Mrs. Hinton, general chairwoman; Mrs. Woodson, auction items coordinator; Susie Faia, food coordinator; Fred Crummey, wine coordinator; and Jean Westcott, cashier coordinator.

The Wine Taste and Silent Auction is the primary fund raiser for the Boosters Club. The 1981 event raised approximately $4,500.

The Boosters Club was formed more than two decades ago. With the recent district budget problems, the fundraising events have taken on an added significance for the Padre sports program.

In the past three years, the club has donated more than $30,000 to the program. The money is used for all sports. Last year, the bulk of the $12,000 donation offset the cost of new uniforms and equipment for several boys' and girls' after-school sports teams.

"Three years ago, the district had a fee for sports ($25 per student per sport)," said Mrs. Hinton, president of the Boosters. "We felt that every student should be able to participate. Some kids were limited because they could not afford the fee."

The sports fee was dropped by the board of education based on the promise of Booster Club funds.

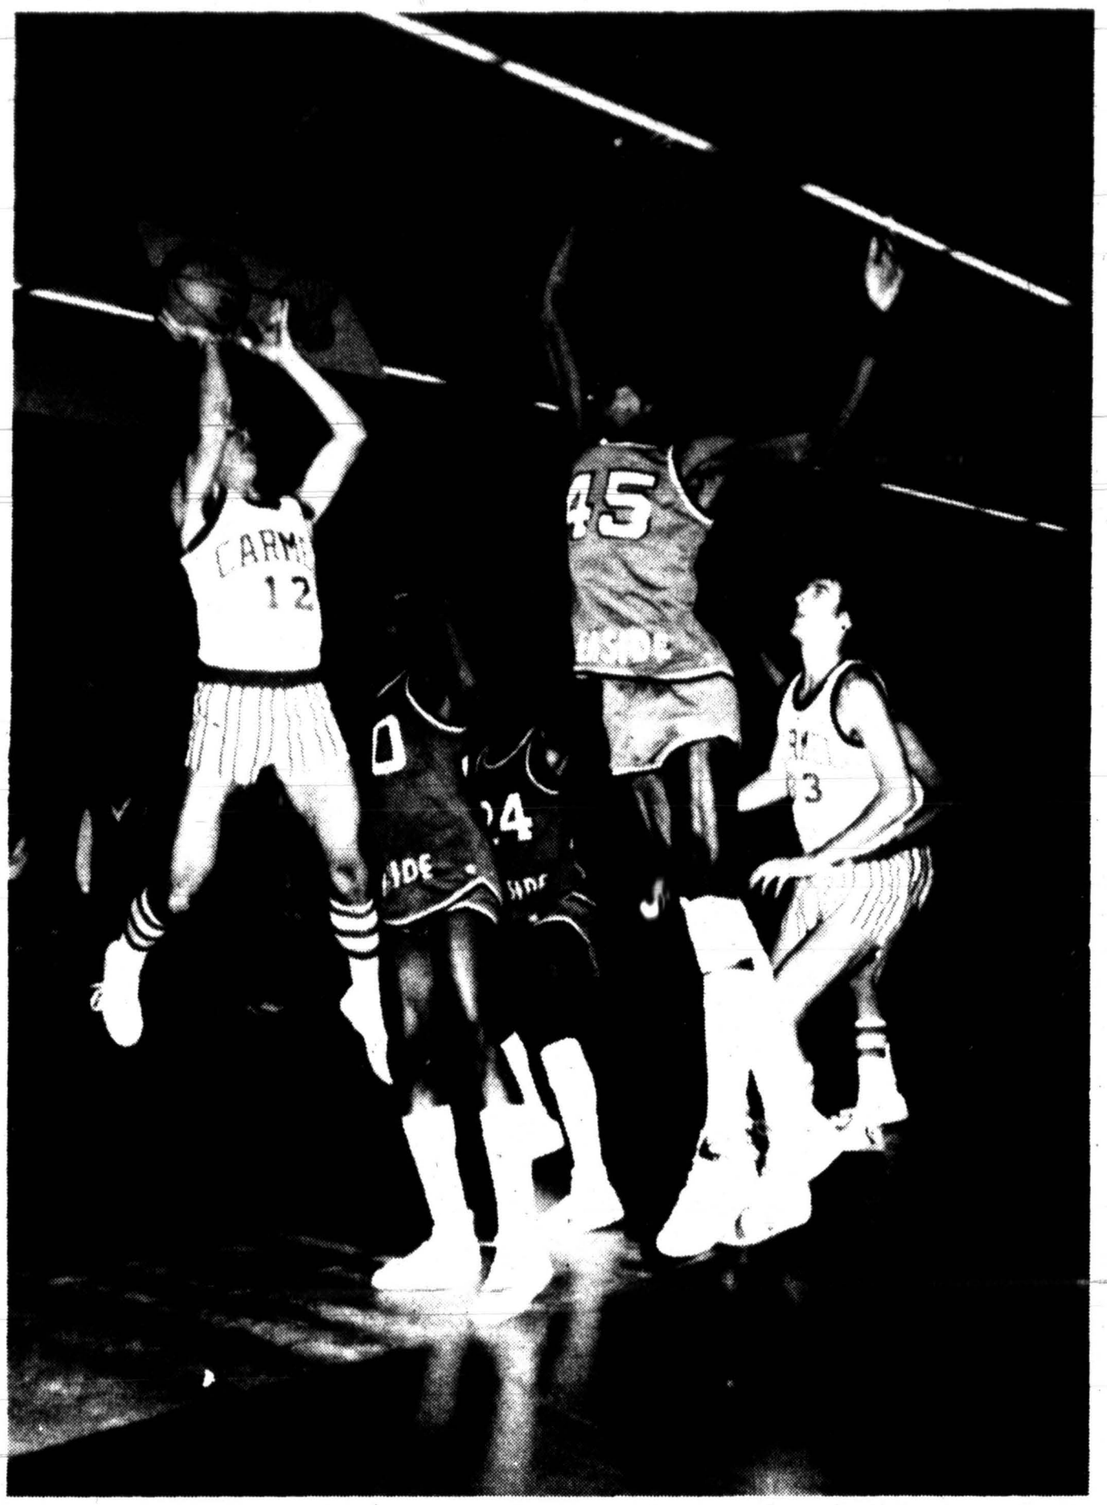
Mrs. Kading believes that funds raised by the Boosters have kept many of the sports programs at the high school "alive."

"The Boosters Club is the life support system for our athletic program," she said. "They provide not only funds, which are imperative, but they also provide the support of the families for the kids. Every event that happens is a family affair. The family atmosphere is what is unique to Carmel.

"The members of the Boosters Club are the focal point of the program," Mrs. Kading continued. "We could not have our program without the Boosters Club."

The Boosters Club has five different kinds of sponsorships: general membership, $5 per year; sponsors, $25 per year; patrons, more than $25 per year; business sponsors, $25 per year. Business sponsors can pay $100 yearly to have a sign on the baseball field fence.

More information on the Boosters Club is available by calling Mrs. Hinton.



THE CARMEL High School sports program receives more than $10,000 yearly from the Boosters Club, a contribution which has made a big difference to sports programs in the fiscally-tight times since passage of Prop. 13. The funds are used to offset the costs of equipment, uniforms and transportation. Use permit hearing set for Sept. 10 on 40-unit Big Sur hotel proposal

MONTEREY COUNTY Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon will conduct a public hearing Sept. 10 on a use permit request for a 40-unit motel in Big Sur.

Slimmon will open the hearing at 2:10 p.m. in the county courthouse in Salinas. Gurries Management of Gilroy seeks permission to build the motel on a 40-acre parcel in the Garrapata area, 10 miles south of Carmel on Highway 1.

Gurries Management sought approval for the motel from the Coastal Commission before its use permit application was filed with Monterey County, but the Coastal Commission rejected the proposal, Slimmon said.

"They made an end run around us and took it to the Coastal Commission," Slimmon said. "The Coastal Commission denied it because they said it isn't consistant with the land use plan for Bug Sur."

At the direction of the zoning administrator, Gurries Management has prepared an environmental impact report for the project which cites "a lot of environmental impacts, and some problems with sewage and water," Slimmon said.

The primary concern, though, is whether the density of one unit per acre is acceptable under the land use plan for Big Sur, Slimmon added. The Big Sur Local Coastal Program, which has been approved by the Coastal Commission with conditions, designates a basic density of one unit per 40 acres in the area.

"My position is that the density there is one unit per 40 acres," Slimmon said.

City wants to regulate Carmel concessions

THE CARMEL Planning Commission wants to nip new concession businesses in the bud before they blossom all over town.

The commission will study proposed limits on concessions — such as flower vendors — when it meets at 4 p.m. Sept. 15 at Carmel City Hall.

"There's going to have to be some kind of control. I suppose it will be numbers," commission chairwoman Sandy Swain told the Pine Cone/Outlook Sept. 1.

'I don't know how many numbers we should limit just yet. I think two is enough. I really thought one is enough. It would really appear that we would be opening a Pandora's Box if we allow these kinds of solicitation to burgeon.'

"I do believe the best thing to do is limit them because the business district is too big. We don't want rose ladies stepping on top of each other," she observed.

"I don't know how many numbers we should limit just yet. I think two is enough. I really thought one is enough. It would really appear that we would be opening a Pandora's Box if we allow these kinds of solicitations to burgeon."

The Business License and Code Review Board asked the planning commission to study proposed restrictions on the concessions after the business board approved a license for "Flowers For Every Occasion."

Planning Director Robert Griggs, a member of the board, said the planning commission needs to review concession businesses.

"They need to talk about the businesses and whether they want these type of practices going on," Griggs said.

The year-old Rose Lady and Flowers For Every Occasion are the only concession businesses with permits to operate in the city limits. Employees of the businesses walk through restaurants and bars and sell flowers to patrons. The concessions contract with restaurant and bar owners to sell the flowers inside their businesses.

"She (the employee) can not sell the flowers on the street. They have to be sold in the business establishment. The restaurants grant them a concession," Griggs said.

Doug DeGeorge, president of Flowers For Every Occasion, said he has permission from three restaurant owners and one bar operator in Carmel to sell flowers. Prices of the flowers will be $4.50 for a gardenia, $3.50 for a rose, and $2.50 for a baby rose.

The Rose Lady was the first concession type business in Carmel. It received a business license in April of 1981 just to deliver flowers. In October, the city granted The Rose Lady permission to sell flowers in the retail district.

Eric Larson, a partner in The Rose Lady, said he did not want to comment on the permit for Flowers For Every Occasion. He also did not want to discuss any proposed city restrictions on such businesses.

DEBI SHARP, a flower lady employed by Flowers For Every Occasion, walks through local restaurants and bars selling roses and gardenias. Because there are now two flower concession businesses in Carmel, the planning commission believes it may be time to limit such enterprises. Planning commissioners will study possible regulations when they meet Sept. 15. The other licensed concession is The Rose Lady. (M.G. photo).

State gives sanitary district water reclamation deadline

CAN THE Carmel Sanitary District sell 2.4 million gallons of reclaimed water by 1988?

District directors have until July 1, 1988 to obtain contracts that guarantee there will be buyers for all of the water generated from a proposed $18.2 million water reclamation project.

State Water Resources Control Board staff members informed district representatives of that decision during a three-hour special meeting in Sacramento Sept. 1.

Sanitary District Manager Michael Zambory is to make a complete report on the results of the session when directors meet at 1:30 p.m., Sept. 16 at Carmel City Hall.

The meeting in Sacramento was convened after Zambory received a letter from the state that indicated the district may lose federal funds if not all of the water is sold.

"The state sent us a notice in a letter that stated if the entire amount of water isn't sold, then the project would not be funded entirely," Zambory told the Pine Cone/Outlook Sept. 2.

The financing plan for the water reclamation project envisions state and federal grants which would fund $16.1 million of the $18.2 million cost. The Carmel Sanitary District would issue bonds to pay about $1.6 million. The Pebble Beach Sanitary District, which contracts with Carmel for the treatment and disposal of its effluent, would pay $760,000.

Local costs would increase dramatically if state and federal grants are not kept at the agreed levels. But the sanitary district has operated under the assumption that grants might be cut, so five representatives of the district went to Sacramento to meet with state officials, Zambory said

Zambory went with directors Ken McGinnis and Charlotte Townsend; Walter Wong, Monterey County Environmental Health Officer; and Dick Dowd, project engineer.

State water officials told the Carmel representatives that the state Water Resources Control Board does not intend to reduce the grant amounts to Carmel.

"What the letter amounted to, they said, was a notice of special conditions on the Carmel project," Zambory said.

The special condition is a deadline by which Carmel must have contracts that guarantee the sale of a certain amount of water by a certain date, the representatives learned.

Contracts that guarantee the purchase of all of the 2.4 million gallons per day (between the months of May and October) must be signed by 1988. Construction of the water reclamation plant is expected to be completed by July, 1985, Zambory said.

If the district does not sell all of the water, there are still other markets. Some markets suggested by the state included irrigation of the artichoke fields on the western side of the Odello Ranch and watering of forage plants on grazing land in Carmel Valley. The district will also study the feasibility of discharging reclaimed water into the Carmel River to limit the influx of ocean salt water, Zambory said.

THE STATE has set these deadlines for purchase guarantees: 1 million gallons per day (mgpd) by July of 1984; 1.2 mgpd by July of 1985; 1.6 mgpd by July of 1986; 2 mgpd by July of 1987; and 2.4 mgpd by July of 1988.

Zambory pointed out that the district has signed contracts with several Pebble Beach golf courses to provide reclaimed water for irrigation. The contracts already guarantee purchase of 1.6 mgpd, which is not required by the state until July 1986.

Price of the tertiary-treated effluent is estimated at 70 cents per 100 cubic feet. There are 748 gallons in 100 cubic feet. The cost of potable water is currently between $1 and $1.30 per 100 cubic feet depending on the amount used, Zambory said.

The district will continue to solicit contracts for the reclaimed water. Some markets suggested by the state included irrigation of the artichoke fields on the western side of the Odello Ranch and watering of forage plants on grazing land in Carmel Valley. The district will also study the feasibility of discharging reclaimed water into the Carmel River to limit the influx of ocean salt water, Zambory said.

The reclamation plant will be constructed on district property south of the Carmel River nearCarmel Mission and west of Highway 1 adjacent to the Odello Ranch property.

The scheme was developed in response to a state order that the district stop the discharge of effluent into Carmel Bay between the months of May through October.

The state gave Carmel until 1990 to meet the requirements.

Zambory pointed out that the 1990 date is still effective although the new time frame lists 1988 as a requirement for the sale of all of the water.

He said the two years will provide an overlap for changes in technical procedures.

Business board approves another T-shirt shop

By FLORENCE MASON

WITH HARDLY a ripple of concern, the Business License and Code Review Board has approved John Redmond's application to run a business for "the retail sale of silk-screened apparel and accessories," — that is, T-shirts!

This, in spite of the board's - and the city's - frequently expressed concern about the proliferation of such shops? Yes, and for a good reason. Redmond will not add a T-shirt shop to the Carmel scene. He will take over a pre-existing one — the Carmel Shirt Works, on Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues.

Redmond appeared to be fully aware of the board's concern about T-shirt shops as an example of the kind of tourist-oriented business about which the city is less than happy. He said he does not propose to make any changes in the store or its merchandise.

"It will be the same shirts, the same top-quality materials," he said. "I believe in good taste. I know that the T-shirt business is going astray. I want to emphasize long-lasting quality."

The latter statement was in response to board member Sandy Swain's request that Redmond give special consideration to the window displays at the store to be sure they are done "in good taste." Redmond said most of the silk screening is done in the store and that most of the shirts have local scenes on them or cartoons. Few have "sayings."

Redmond also plans to add some heavier things for colder weather use, such as sweat shirts and sweat suits.

Because the Carmel Shirt Works opened before the city enacted a moratorium designed to control the number of tourist-oriented businesses, the discussion with Redmond was not crucial to his application. Nonetheless, he appeared eager to reassure the board about the quality of the products he will sell.

THE FRENCH COLLECTION IN CARMEL

Now we can tell you about that interesting new shop in the Court of the Golden Bough, off Ocean Avenue. It's above Sade's, between Lincoln and Monte Verde streets and is called The French Collection.

Co-owners of this specialty shop are Rita Seger and Beth Stratton. Mrs. Seger's name will be familiar to readers of this column and local residents knowledgeable about her work as a designer and as the former owner of a Barnyard shop.

Rita Seger and her husband, Robert, an architect who specializes in kitchen and bath design, established Seger's Kitchen Designs on Mission Street earlier this year and it will continue to receive their enthusiastic attention.

"I have been doing and will continue to do design work (for the 22nd year) but the challenge of putting another shop together was too much for me and I couldn't resist," she said.

The challenge was offered by Beth Stratton, a customer of Mrs. Seger. The former approached her about a partnership in a new venture after Mrs. Seger sold Seger's French Country Look in The Barnyard.

The French Collection is licensed by LaFrance Boutique, which means exclusive sales of Olivado fabric from Provence, companion wallpaper and tile. The fabric is sold by the yard and the French Collection will create clothing, accessories, bedding and other items from it, as well as handle special orders. Faience china and lamps from LaFrance are also available in the charming setting designed, of course, by Mrs. Seger.

There's more from France—soap, wrapping paper, small antiques, even French antique furniture.

"It's very exciting seeing all this come together," Rita Seger said when the shop opened a couple of weeks ago. "I look forward to seeing my old customers again in a 'French' but different way."

LONI SKAGERSON has opened "Unique Image," a school for self-improvement.

INTRODUCING THE VIAUS

"Relatively refined European and Oriental antiques, more applicable for this area" is how Earl Viau characterizes the merchandise he'll display in Carmel's newest antique shop. Viau Antiques is on the west side of Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, where Davis Holdship was located before its recent move to the Enchanted Oaks courtyard.

This will be the second antique store for the Viau family. The first is in Selma (Fresno County) and it will continue to be run by Earl's mother, Elaine Viau. In addition to the "relatively refined" antiques Earl Viau will bring to Carmel, he plans to add paintings and estate jewelry.

Viau, a graduate gemologist, worked in that profession in Pacific Grove several years ago. Then he went overseas for further study in antiques. The trip combined his two special interests—travel and "the business." He'll continue to live in Pacific Grove.

HOME, JAMES?

Now you can be piloted in an elegant limousine for your special occasion — or no occasion at all. One of Carmel's most interesting new businesses is being introduced by Hunter Bungay, a delightful, exuberant man who has been a Carmel resident for 12 years.

Bungay is an active airplane pilot and owns his own plane. For Bungay's Celebrity Limousine Service, however, he'll stay on the ground and chauffeur the elegant limousine himself. That connection with flying might develop in the future if those he chauffeurs begin to think in terms of adding a scenic airplane flight to their plans.

The new service, which includes complimentary champagne, was actually originated by Bungay's son, John, who operates four limousines in Sacramento. When Hunter Bungay said he was looking for something to do, his son suggested that he open his own limousine service here in Carmel. The idea caught the senior Bungay's interest immediately.

Some of the occasions for which Bungay expects his new service to provide that special touch are weddings, graduations and school proms. Celebrities visiting the Peninsula might use the service just to get around while they are here. "The interest has been great from hotels, travel agencies, the airport too," Bungay said. He also anticipates taking tourists to Big Sur and other nearby attractions in style.

It's not that Hunter Bungay really lacked things to do, as he has been in business himself and has been a deputy sheriff "ferrying sheriff Bud Cook's men around in my plane," as he put it. But it was time for something new and interesting, he thought, and so he was delighted with his son's idea and his offer of help to get him started.

Bungay and his wife, Connie Lou, live near the ocean in Carmel. They have five children in all and four grandsons. And now an elegant limousine to share with Carmelites and visitors.

YOUNG LADY, HOW'S YOUR IMAGE?

A new business with the goal of teaching young girls to become young ladies has just opened in Carmel. The Unique Image, a school of self-improvement, offered its first class at Sunset Center Aug. 31. Other courses are to follow, each limited to eight girls between 13 and 17.

Owner/instructor Loni Skogerson has graduated hundreds of young ladies in her courses in Washington during the last six years. She moved to Carmel and now will introduce her curriculum to the Monterey Bay area. She knows the beauty world from two sides: as a judge of beauty contests and pageant consultant on the one hand and as a successful competitor on the other. In 1980 she was named Mrs. Washington America and participated in the national Mrs. America contest.

However, it is life — not beauty pageants — for which she expects The Unique Image to prepare most of its students. The three-month curriculum includes carriage and walking,

NEW LIGHTS FOR LOCAL THEATERS?

The Monterey Peninsula theater world is about to gain a new non-profit theater company.

The people behind this idea are brothers Gregory and John Light, who grew up in Monterey, strayed into other areas and would like to return. They propose to offer some coming-together activities for local theater companies and to provide a home for professional actors.

"The first thing we are going to do," Gregory Light said in a call from his home in Hollister, "is to go out into the Monterey Peninsula and find out what the community is looking for from local theater, what their interests are. We'd like to establish some communication among the various already-existing theaters — perhaps a newsletter so everyone would know what is being planned, when and where auditions will be held." Light pointed to two recent conflicts when two theaters produced Cyrano de Bergerac at the same time and two others, simultaneous productions of Music Man.

The brothers bring extensive and varied experience to their project. Gregory Light has specialized in direction and the technical side of theater — mostly at the junior college level. His brother, John, who has just moved back to the Peninsula from Los Angeles, is an actor and director with ACT experience. He also worked with the Globe Theater in San Diego.

Gregory Light emphasized that they do not plan to plunge into producing a show. "The first thing we are going to do is organize a group, get support, and — especially — find out what the community's needs and interests are." He added that workshops or seminars might be a first step in bringing local actors together.

A FIRM WORD FROM THE B OF A

"None of the Bank of America branches on the Peninsula is going to close." That was the statement of Bill Schmidt, manager of BofA's branch at Carmel Plaza.

Schmidt said the only changes for the bank in this area are positive ones — a new building for the Monterey branch and expansion of the Versateller automated teller machines to new branches and perhaps even to non-branch sites such as shopping centers and major employment areas.

"We're in line for a Versateller installation either in this branch or at Carmel Center," Schmidt said. He added that this was not yet firm but could happen after the first of the year. He said the Versateller installed in the Monterey branch is now open from 6 a.m. to midnight, seven days a week.

This was the "Carmel connection" for a press release sent out from the Bank of America's San Francisco headquarters in which the bank set about to correct "stories and rumors" that there were plans to close as many as 400 of its California branches.

The bank is undergoing a "restructuring program," according to the release. However, it is opening new branches as well as closing a few (for a net closing of seven in 1981 and anticipation of a similar figure for this year). In three years, BofA has installed 426 Versateller ATMs, 26 of them in non-branch sites, and it is also developing home video banking and telephone banking pilot projects.

Schmidt said he does not anticipate automated teller machines at any non-branch sites in this area in the immediate future, only at one of the local branch offices.

HUNTER BUNGAY will stay on the ground to chauffeur for his new business, "Bungay's Celebrity Limousine Service." Bungay owns and flies his own airplane. As a deputy sheriff, Bungay used to chauffeur officers in his airplane when that kind of transportation was necessary.

DINNER IS READY — AT HOME

A note in the Carmel Foundation's Newsletter led to the discovery that there is a small business which helps to fulfill a considerable need for hot meals delivered to individual homes.

The entrepreneur is Yve Poyner, who lives in Monterey but has a number of customers in Carmel. She sees her small business as an extension of the cooking she does for her own family. That's a total of six — husband Roger, an attorney, and four children. When she is preparing gourmet meals for them, she just makes more. That helps keep the prices down, too.

"The fun is that the customers don't know what the dinner will be until it arrives hot at their door," Mrs. Poyner said. "I will have asked them about their food preferences, but it's not a matter of ordering specific entrees each time."

If pickles and jam are included, they will be quite special, for Mrs. Poyner has won first prizes for them at several fairs.

She believes she fills a gap for those who don't like to go out to restaurants but who enjoy gourmet food cooked by someone else, and her goal is to keep her prices below what similar food would cost in a restaurant. It's obviously a labor of love, extending outward from her family.

WASH AND FOLD

There's a new wrinkle — but no wrinkles — at Jim Bowen's Maytag Center Laundromat behind the newest Crossroads buildings. Bowen, who is also "Jim Bowen, Real Estate Investments," has added a wash and fold service to the busy facility.

Between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., 2 p.m. and 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, you can leave your wash and have it dried, folded and ready to pick up that day or the next. The service is also available Saturday morning for pick-up or same day service.

No parking problems, either — now that The Crossroads builders have moved their trucks out and restored the parking lot surface.

Quilter's Guild monthly meeting scheduled

The Monterey Peninsula Quilter's Guild will meet at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Parish Hall, Centraland Twelfth, Pacific Grove Monday, Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker Julie Silber will give a slide/lecture presentation on her involvement in American Quilts: A Handmade Legacy, a quilt show that was exhibited at the Oakland Museum in 1981. A small fee will be charged to non-members.

BUSINESS IS GOOD,AND WILL CONTINUE SO

There had been very little diminution in the number of sojourners in Carmel as compared with July and August. Many of the cottages usually for rent at this time are now and will be occupied for some time.

The stores and hotels have enjoyed a particularly prosperous summer, and all indications point to a busy fall and winter.

PLANTING OF SHRUBS WILL BEAUTIFY ENTRANCE TO CITY

Improvement of the road banks at the entrance of Carmel was under way this week under the direction of Clara Kellogg, commissioner of streets.

Following a conference with members of the city council, Miss Kellogg ordered the hard dirt on the banks of the Carmel Hill to be dynamited. The hard dirt after is was loosened has been replaced with rich soil which will be cultivated to grow distinctive shrubbery.

Both Miss Kellogg and other members of the council feel that improvement of the entrance of the village will add much to the beauty of Carmel.

ENROLLMENT UP 93 IN CARMEL SCHOOLS

"Ninety-three more pupils than last year are attending the four Carmel schools, according to records in the office of Superintendent Stuart Mitchell. Total enrollment for Woods, River, Sunset and the High School is 1326 students. The increase is expected to rise above 93 pupils next Tuesday when the schools reopen after the Admission Day holiday weekend.

Largest attendance growth is a River School where 57 more pupils are in the kindergarten through fourth grade classes; second largest growth of 35 pupils is at Woods School in the same grades. The High School has 25 more students with 16 more known to be returning within the next few weeks. Sunset enrollment in fifth through eighth grades has dropped by 24 pupils. However, Sunset's figure is expected to rise next week as illness is keeping pupils already registered from attending classes.

"I thought it was time to relax and play a little," Mrs. Glenn (Marian) Leidig says after teaching school 27 years.

"Glenn and I are looking forward to going places — like back to the Islands or we might go to Europe."

Marian has operated the Carmel Pre-School for 23 years. Starting in September, she's leasing the school to Mrs. Dick (Millicent) Lawitzke of Carmel.

Millicent has been teaching kindergarten for ten years. Last year she was in charge of the Carmel Pre-School. Dick Lawitzke teaches at Carmel High School.

TOUR BUSES STILL STRAYING ON FORBIDDEN STREETS

Suppose they made a law and nobody knew about it?

According to one tour bus escort, that's exactly what's happened here in Carmel.

Despite enactment of Carmel's emergency tour bus ordinance three weeks ago, buses are still straying along Ocean Avenue and meandering in the wrong direction up Junipero.

cident rate on the four-lane segment north of Ocean Avenue is lower than the statewide average" but that the accident rate south of Ocean Avenue "on the two-lane segment is 50 percent higher than the statewide average."

IN MY VIEW, if the essential environmental characteristics of the unequaled Carmel area are to be saved for posterity, the less bending and bowing to the seeming demands of traffic congestion, the better. Among alternatives discussed at length in the Cal-Trans report mentioned is the one which would simply expand the existing Highway 1 two-lane segment from Ocean Avenue to the Carmel Valley Road to four lanes.

This would also be the least expensive of the alternatives discussed in that Cal-Trans report. The cost of this widening, along with adjustments to the approach from the north to and through the Ocean Avenue intersection — projected by Cal Trans — is $1million — quite obviously less than the $17 million cost projected for the Hatton Canyon Freeway.

There are, of course, specific questionable environmental features involved in a construction project as enormous as the Hatton Canyon Freeway. There would be interchanges at both Carpenter Street and at the Carmel Valley Road and huge cuts-and-fills along the whole Hatton Canyon which drops 500 feet from Carpenter Street to the Carmel Valley Road.

The best ultimate use of the Hatton Canyon would probably be some combination of greenbelt and park use. If the Canyon right-of-way were to be offered to some public body, perhaps the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District could become the lead agency in working out a plan to buy the canyon property and to fit the area into its park arrangements. By that means, an important scenic resource to enhance the Carmel area as well as to save it for posterity could be created.

If you agree with me that it is important to take the Hatton Canyon out of its freeway peril, I urge you to attend the next meeting of the Save Hatton Canyon Committee, which will be held in the Community Room of the Monterey Public Library at 7 p.m. next Monday, Sept. 13. The committee chairman is Michael Kelly.

In a letter-to-the-editor, written a year or so ago, the world-renowned architect, Nathaniel Owings, who lives in Big Sur, said better than I can:

"We should not be mesmerized by hit-and-run developers. We should ban tract housing, plastic supermarkets, monster interchanges, and super highways. We should be building road blocks, not removing them. It's our air, water, and sanity we cherish, not an inflated dollar. Do we want a happy Chamber of Commerce, or a happy set of grandchildren? In a happy acrimonious way, we are uniquely self-sufficient. Let us enrich what we have."

Questions & Answers About P.G.&E.'s Zero Interest Program...

Q. What is ZIP?

ZIP is P.G.& E.'s Zero Interest Program that allows Homeowner's and Landlords FREE Financing to insulate and apply other enery conservation features to their homes. Loans can be made up to $3,500 per unit, paid back in 50 or 100 months with NO INTEREST.

Q. Is ZIP a Gimmick?

Not at all! ZIP is one of the results of the National Energy Policy Act signed into law by Pres. Carter in 1978. The act requires each state to set up a Residential Conservation Service (RCS) program which mandates that utilities offer their customers an energy audit as well as arranging services for the installation and financing of applicable energy conservation measures. ZIP is P.G.&E.'s answer to encourage energy conservation. Studies show that it's cheaper to conserve energy through weatherizing than to buy expensive fuel and build new power plants. Hence the ZIP loan.

Q. So Who's Paying for ZIP?

All of us. The California Public Utilities Commission authorized $29,000,000. in rates to cover administrative costs of the program. A financial subsidary and project financing is used to raise capital for the loans. According to P.G.&E., ZIP will cost about $374. per P.G.&E. customer over the life of the program. We're all paying for ZIP...Let's use it.

Eliminating the flea

By JUDITH A. EISNER

FLEAS ARE GETTING meaner all the time. We believe the widespread use of flea collars, powders, sprays, dips and "natural" products has led to the development of a more resistant breed of pest. Once, we could put a new flea collar on a dog and expect, if not a full three months of protection, at least eight weeks of relief. Now the fleas seem to be all but unaffected by such means.

We spoke with two flea-bitten humans last week. One had just moved with her own dog to an apartment previously inhabited by another girl-dog team. As soon as she moved in, both she and her dog were attacked fiercely by fleas that seemed to be everywhere.

The second person was a rental agent who had just inspected a recently-vacated home. As soon as she entered a room, fleas began "leaping" up to nip her ankles and legs. Their question was the same: how do we get rid of them?

Generally, the varieties of fleas that dine on dogs and cats prefer their chosen hosts. They tend to leave humans alone as long as there is a fur-bearing meal around. The problem only comes to human attention when the dog or cat leaves; then the hungry fleas don't mind transferring their appetites to other species.

It's futile to try to de-flea a dog or cat as long as there are fleas firmly entrenched in their living quarters. You can get rid of the animal's fleas temporarily, but as soon as he returns home, he'll gather a new batch.

WE'VE FOUND the most effective method of de-fleaing a room (or a house or dog house) involves cleaning and liberal use of a good flea powder or spray.

Begin by sprinkling a good dose of flea powder into your vacuum cleaner bag. Then, carefully vacuum the rooms, including upholstered furniture and window sills and paying special attention to the edge of carpets where they meet the wall or baseboard. Use a special crevice tool to get into those cracks, which are a favorite hiding and breeding place for fleas.

Next, liberally dust or spray with a flea-killing agent or use one of the special "bug bombs" that kill fleas and other insects. Close the doors and windows and leave — for 24 hours if possible, or whatever time your bug bomb recommends.

In the meantime, treat your dog or cat for fleas with flea powder, spray, dip or a brand new flea collar.

Then, return to the room or house and repeat the vacuuming, using a fresh vacuum cleaner bag filled with another dose of flea powder. Putting flea powder in the vacuum cleaner bag will kill any fleas you vacuum up which have not already succumbed.

From pleased reports we've had, this method works well, although it requires elbow grease and planning. There may still be a few fleas — nothing short of professional fumigation will remove them all — but lingerers can be dealt with as they recur.

HOT SPOTS, ECZEMAS and other assorted skin flare-ups coincide with hot weather and heavy flea infestation. Sustained warm, dry weather leads to the increased external parasites and may be especially hard on your dog's coat.

If you haven't been doing your regular, thorough grooming during the summer, now is certainly a good time to make up for lost time. Keep an eye on the skin of any dog who seems to be doing more than a little chewing, scratching or biting. It may be fleas — which should be removed — or it may be early signs of skin irritation and eruption. If not checked early, these skin problems get worse, make the dog miserable and cost more money to treat.

If your dog's coat seems dry and/or sunburned, it's a good idea to add a coat conditioner or polyunsaturated vegetable oil to his diet. Pure corn oil works well. Remember, dogs can assimilate up to 20 percent of their daily ration in fat and most dog foods contain only 7 percent. (The maximum figure applies to active or hard-working dogs.)

You certainly can't go wrong by adding a tablespoon or two of oil to your dog's dinner (providing the vet hasn't recommended against it because of some chronic condition) and you should see an improvement in his coat within two weeks.

SOME SKIN irritations are not due to parasites or bacteria, but to the dog himself. Nervous, unhappy or bored dogs are capable of developing bad habits that involve chewing or licking portions of their body until they are raw. There is a feeling that dietary imbalances may contribute to some forms of this vice.

Some dogs — and the theory here is that they may have been weaned too young — develop the habit of "side-sucking." Here, the dog curls into a tight ball, takes his flank in his mouth and sucks and mouths himself, often for hours at a time. The dog seems comforted by the sensation, but he can do serious damage to his coat and skin through the continuous sucking.

Other dogs decide on a spot — one paw, the tip of the tail, the point of the hip — and curl up and lick and lick and lick until it is bald and raw. Sometimes, an injury like a cut or scratch or an embedded foxtail may cause this. Again, the site of any injury may continue to receive normal canine "healing" ministrations (licking to clean the site) long after it has healed.

Stopping these habits is tricky. Distasteful substances may be applied; large cardboard collars can be laced to the dog's collar to prevent him from reaching the spot. But it seems that if the diet is good and his general health fine, giving him something else to do and keeping his mind off the spot works best.

Father Farrell's wisdom

Self-pity is destructive

Carmel Rotary, Aug. 25, 1982

On the 10th of August we celebrated the Feast of my Patron Saint, Lawrence, one of the seven Archdeacons of Rome martyred in the third century persecution of the Emperor Valerian. When Lawrence was ordered by the Procuraty to hand over the gold and silver of the church, he gave it to the poor.

He assembled the lame, the halt and the blind and said to the roman official, "Here are the treasures of the Church." Lawrence was thrown on a gridiron over live coals. With gallows humor he said, "I am done on this side, now turn me over." A friend of mine contends that St. Lawrence should be the Patron Saint of all barbequers.

Everyone, at one time or another, is put on the fire. The test is not what the fire does to us but what we let the fire do to us. We give in to self-indulgence and we pay a price. But the greatest price is paid for the self-indulgence of self-pity.

We say to God and man: "My pain is unique. No one suffers as I do. Why does God do this to me and what have I done to deserve this?"

Self-pity is destructive and it is no friend. Suffering and trial should become a test of character as they were to Job. How do we act and react when the cards are down?

In crisis are we cowards or heroes? Do we deserve, like St. Lawrence (Lauream tenens) to be around with a laurel wreath, a symbol of victory over self? Finally, it is not suffering or dying for faith that is so hard, it's living it. Amen.

Deaths

Sarah Martha Legg

Sarah Martha Ross Legg of Pebble Beach, founder of "The Magic Fishbone" children's bookshop in Carmel, died August 29 in San Francisco.

Mrs. Legg was born in Illinois and graduated from Trenton Normal School. She taught in New Jersey elementary schools for 10 years before moving to California.

In 1963 she opened "The Magic Fishbone." It was located first at Mission Street and Sixth Ave., and in its ninth year moved to the Court of Fountains at Mission and Seventh Ave. She closed the store in May 1978.

Her first husband, Howard F. Bruggemen, who retired as president of Monterey Peninsula TV Cable in 1963, actively assisted in the operation of "The Magic Fishbone." He died in 1976.

Known to her friends as Marty, she was a longtime member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Carmel, and was active in community affairs, especially student exchange programs.

Survivors include her husband, Alan; daughter, Judith B. Fryberger of Denver, Colo.; son, H. Frederick Bruggeman of Hebron, Conn., and seven grandchildren.

The family suggested that those wishing to commemorate her life give a book of quality to a young reader as often as they can.

Dorothy B. Toy

Dorothy B. Toy of Carmel Valley died August 30 at Community Hospital after a long illness. She was 59.

Mrs. Toy was born Jan. 16, 1923, in Philadelphis, Pa. She lived in Bryn Mawr, Pa., until 1944. She recently moved with her family to Carmel Valley from Greensboro, N.C.

Survivors include her husband, Walter; sons, David of Annapolis, Md., Alan of Santa Monica and Kevin of Carmel Valley; and daughter, Judith T. Nimz of Sarasota, Fla.

Kindergarten classes begin in new Junipero Serra wing

KINDERGARTEN activities began with a bustle last week in a new $450,000 facility at Junipero Serra School in Carmel.

Enrollment in the new kindergarten located on the grounds of the Carmel Mission has already reached the maximum 25 students. The afternoon children's care program is full and the two meeting rooms have been used consistently for parish activities, said Sister Geraldine McNamara, principal.

The 4,000 sq. ft. facility was used as a kindergarten classroom for the first time Sept. 1. This is the first year Junipero Serra School has offered a kindergarten program.

"Naturally our kindergarten program is designed to prepare them for entrance to first grade. I think we have a healthy combination of academic, social and religious activities for the children," Sister Geraldine told the Pine Cone/Outlook.

"We have the religious element here. We have a period of 10 to 15 minutes every day that teaches the children to be aware that there is a God, that he is a loving Father and that he cares about them," she said.

Other religious programs include stories, songs and prayers, Sister Geraldine added.

A plan to open a kindergarten was developed because many parishioners asked why a program was not offered.

"We took a survey about two years ago in our school community and asked parents if they were interested in a kindergarten," Sister Geraldine said. "We received a tremendous response. It all started because many parents had asked us."

The kindergarten is directed by Carol Harrison, who previously taught at a private school in Carmel Valley. Mary Jo Franco is the full-time teacher's aide.

Kindergarten classes began Sept. 1. The children attend school from 8:30 a.m. until noon. Tuition is $730 annually.

The facility is also the site of a new after-school care program from noon to 5:30 p.m. for children from kindergarten through third grade.

Lydna Christensen directs the program, which includes structured activities in music, art and games. There are no academic subjects included in the program.

Cost of the program depends on the hours and days of student attendance. Cost of full-time enrollment is $150 per month.

The program reached its 15-student capacity immediately and there is a waiting list.

Serra School is adjacent to Carmel Mission at 2991 Lasuen Drive. More information is available from the school office at 624-8322.

STUDENTS IN the new Junipero Serra kindergarten gather around teacher Carol Harrison for story time.

Volunteers needed

Museum on Wheels, an educational project of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, needs volunteers to assist staff members for the 1982-83 school year.

The program travels to schools in Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties with a collection of more than 200 pieces of folk art.

Training for volunteers will begin Tuesday, Sept. 14. Interested persons should phone 373-2061.

TICKETS ARE now on sale for the annual Carmel Mission Fiesta de San Carlos Borromeo barbecue which will be presented from noon to 5 p.m. Sept. 26. Admission to the fiesta is free. The cost of the barbecue is a $5 donation. There will be games and refreshments. Entertainment will include flamenco music and dancers, a mariachi band and marimba duo. Thomas Thomas of Carmel Woods (above, sitting at right) has volunteered to sell raffle tickets in the Carmel Mission courtyard area. You need not be present to win, as evidenced by this trio from Australia who bought tickets: Gail Heald (sitting), Kellie Heald (left) and Lauroe Ruff (right). Proceeds from the fiesta go to Serra School and refurbishing projects at the Mission. Persons interested in helping with the fiesta are asked to phone Bruna Odello at 624-7473. (M.G. photo)

Council gives joint parking garage the heave-ho

By ROBERT MISKIMON

MAYOR Charlotte Townsend was all alone when the Carmel City Council decided without hesitation to scuttle a proposed joint parking garage venture with the Pine Inn.

The council, with very little discussion, voted 4-1 Tuesday to kill the project after council members described the practically unanimous public reaction against the 50-year contract.

"I did not receive a single call in favor of the garage," Councilwoman Helen Arnold said. "The feeling was very strong and unanimous against the proposal."

"This project is out of concept with Carmel," Councilman David Maradei said. "And I don't believe it's a very good financial deal for Carmel. It will be ugly."

Councilman Frank Lloyd, who left the meeting after the vote on the parking garage, said he had "heard much the same message from everyone I've talked to. Not a single person has spoken in favor. I just can't support such a proposal."

Councilman Robert Stephenson said he personally supported the idea of a joint parking venture with the Pine Inn, but related that comments he received from the public were negative.

"Entanglement with a private business doesn't concern me," Stephenson said. "The 50-year business has me a little concerned. It won't be handsome, perhaps, but with a little foliage around, it could be disguised. However I haven't heard very much affirmative argument for this. Personally, I'd be in favor of it."

"I feel this is a good use of the land and a good use of the money," Mayor Townsend said. "I'm saddened by the lack of confidence the people have shown in their elected officials."

The contract would have bound the city of Carmel and Pine Inn owners to construction of a 96-space, two-level parking garage on three parcels of land owned by the city on the northwest corner of Sixth Avenue and Lincoln Street, and on two parcels owned by the Pine Inn on the northeast corner of Sixth Avenue and Monte Verde Street.

The agreement would split the costs of the project, up to a maximum of $350,000 for each party. The city's share would have been financed through accumulated in-lieu parking fees. The city has $225,000 in fees collected from developers as payment in lieu of providing the required number of public parking spaces.

•

PARKING GARAGES "are not built to the scale of human beings but to the scale of the automobile," said Robert Campbell of Carmel.

"Traffic in Carmel, like water, will always seek its own level. How will the existence of space in this building be advertised? I hope it will not be said of Carmel that we moved too far, too fast toward our own destruction."

In other business, the council continued consideration of participation in a proposed water project zone of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District until Oct. 5, to allow time for a joint meeting of council members and directors of the water district.

The $80 million water project is a three-part program which would include construction of a dam with 27,000 ac. ft. storage capacity on the upper Carmel River, recharge of the underground aquifer in Seaside, and water conservation.

If the Carmel City Council decides not to participate, it means Carmel residents could not vote in the election and might not share in the increased water supplies, Buel said. Council members, however, expressed reservations about participation in a project which would primarily service the water needs of other areas of the Monterey Peninsula.

The council also:

• Remanded to the Board of Adjustments an appeal by George Brook-Kothlow of a use permit denial for a restaurant on the south side of Ocean Avenue between Mission and San Carlos streets.

• Approved a one-year extension of an ordinance which requires design study for areas recently annexed to the city.

• Continued consideration of an ordinance which would modify provisions of the small space moratorium until Sept. 21.

• Continued consideration of a proposed exeption to the ordinance which governs reconstruction of nonconforming motels until Sept. 21.

• Approved a grant of $3,000 to the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department to assist in restoration of a 1923 LuVerne fire engine — the city's first motorized piece of fire equipment.

Moving dredges up worst facets of her personality

By AUDREY CURRAN

I HATE MOVING! I mean I really hate moving! It dredges up all the worst facets of my personality. They rise up out of their dark, murky hiding places and leave me feeling utterly vulnerable and exposed.

Step into my home any time, well, almost any time...well, at least half the time, and everything "appears" neat and orderly. The painful truth is that I only "pretend" to be neat and well organized. A really messy person is sneaking around inside of me leering and smirking smugly at putting one over on everybody. The true me gets exposed when I am packing to move.

I learned the "shove it" principle of housekeeping early on. Shove it in a closet. Shove it in a drawer. Shove it in a kitchen cupboard. In a desperate hurry with unexpected company coming, I have even shoved a dish pan fully of dirty dishes into the oven because I didn't have time to empty the clean dishes out of the dishwasher!

Oh, it may be easy for you to excuse me, and for me to rationalize that a working mother with three small children to conquer, and night classes to attend, had to learn the "shove it" method of housekeeping.

But what haunts me now, in the middle of packing...faced with all the bits and scraps of paper, the magazines and books, the odds and ends of metal scraps, screws and nails, the outgrown clothes, toys, memorabilia, that I have been stacking and shoving into dark recesses tightly covered over and concealed by well fitting doors and drawers...is that if I were a decent human being, I would have reformed and given up my miserable, deceptive ways when the children went off to college and I had more leisure time. And if I were truly a decent human being, I wouldn't have written all those stories in my smug superior "I just can't imagine where they learned such behavior" attitude, about the children shoving their dirty socks and underwear under the bed instead of dropping them in the hamper.

One of my defenses, one of the little crutches that helps me to have a sense of myself, to "know who I am," so to speak, is the belief that I am a person of some small sophistication. That is to say, I have a modicum of "class." Now, no one has ever defined class for me nor have I tried to define it for myself. It has to do with many subtle things such as having the savoir-faire to appreciate the Carmel area.

When I am in the middle of packing to move, my crutch gets pulled right out from under me. I have to face the cold ugly fact that I simply have very little "class." Would a truly sophisticated woman, a woman with any class at all, pitch out a silver fruit bowl and tenderly, carefully pack up a torn beach ball? Moving is just too traumatic! How can I be expected to get through the rest of my life after such a devastating insight into the "real" me?

•

I HAVE TRIED to hide from the truth by telling myself that the silver bowl was at least 25 years old, that I never liked it, had only used it once or twice, and that it was heavily tarnished because it hadn't been properly stored. Nothing helps. No matter how much one hates a silver piece and hates the thought of polishing it, one doesn't throw it out to make space to save a useless beach ball. Except...

When our youngest daughter was three, the age of books and balls and Barbie dolls, she often accompanied her father while he was working and took her toys along to keep her amused. In her ABC book she saw a picture of a big rubber ball with red stripes and white stars. "Oh Daddy, oh Daddy, get me a ball with stars on it," she pleaded one morning as my husband hurriedly left for work.

As my husband sped along the highway, he spotted a wire cage full of balls in a gas station. He applied the brakes and sharply turned the wheel of the big delivery truck he used in his business. Tall, rugged looking in work clothes and unshaven on this particular day, he jumped from the cab of the truck as a burly gas attendant approached with an inquiring look. As my husband slid from behind the wheel, he unwittingly brushed three totally naked Barbie dolls from the front seat onto the pavement in front of him.

"Can I help you, buddy?" the attendant said caustically, looking first down at the dolls and then back at my husband.

"Yes, yes, well, a, uh...I would like a ball with stars on it please."

"Hey, Dan!" the attendant called over his shoulder. "Would you get this, uh, gentleman a ball with stars on it while I help him pick up his dollies!"

You see why I hate moving. I have to accept the fact that I have no class...only a torn ball with stars on it, and...a memory.

Sunset Views

'Wintertime' chosen by Carmel Festival of Firsts

By RICHARD TYLER

THE CARMEL Festival of Firsts playwriting competition announces the production of the 1982 prize winner, John Liam Joyce's Wintertime, at the Sunset Center Theater on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Sept. 23, 24, and 25, at 8 p.m.

John Liam Joyce, the winning playwright, is a second-generation Irishman from New York's Hell's Kitchen area. After service in the Korean War, he attended schools in New England with the vague aim of a legal career. The theater captured his interest, however, and he apprenticed in small community theater in and around Boston as an actor and sometime director.

More recently he has functioned as a playwright-in-residence at the Royal Court Theatre in New York City where some of his shorter pieces have been produced. Wintertime is his first full-length play to have a staged production.

"It is essentially a play of reconciliation and love between an aging father and his middle-aged son after a lifetime of estrangement," Joyce said. "I knew before attempting Wintertime that the father-son subject was rich with latent emotional content in the form of undeclared, unexpressed love. The lack of overt gestures of affection between fathers and sons, for whatever reasons, is endemic in our culture.

"And in no ethnic subculture is that lack more acute than the Irish-Catholic. I wonder how many Irish-Catholic men experience a stab of emotional deprivation when they see men of less repressed heritage embracing their sons with the ease of a handshake."

Peter DeBonon, well known Peninsula director, will again direct the Carmel production as he did for the first prize winner in 1978. DeBono had been chairman of the drama department at Monterey Peninsula College for the past two and one-half years and has seen the season ticket subscribers grow to more than 3,000 patrons. He founded and is the managing director of the Monterey Peninsula Shakespeare Festival, which produced MacBeth in the summer of 1981 and this past summer, The Merchant of Venice and The Taming of the Shrew. He holds a BA degree and a master's degree in theater arts from UCLA. Some of his directional credits include The Boys in the Band, Godspell, Roar of the Greasepaint, That Championship Season, and Stop the World, I Want to Get Off at MPC; The Sunshine Boys at the Wharf Theater and Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead at the Forest Theater. He also produced and directed The Pastorela-Christmas Play in 1979 and 1980 at the Monterey Conference Center for the City of Monterey.

Wintertime boasts a fine cast. Donald J. Ross will make his first appearance at the Sunset Theater though he has performed on the Peninsula since he moved here in 1956. His many credits include performances in the Forest Theater Guild Shakespearean productions of Twelfth Night, Richard III, Merchant of Venice and Taming of the Shrew. At present, he is repeating his involvement in The Taming of the Shrew in the Monterey Peninsula Shakespeare Festival Production. He was stage manager under Charles Thomas for the old Golden Bough Theater-in-the-Round.

An autograph party in honor of the author of a new volume of poetry, I've been Meaning to Say, by Carolyn Stanley Goodall, is planned Sunday, Sept. 12 at 12:30 p.m. at The Thunderbird Store, in The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel.

The book, designed and produced by Angel Press Publishers of Monterey, features verse which cameos life, love, parenting, partnering and friendship. The author's own family is the centerpiece of this poetic and sensitive tribute. Memorable photographs add an intimate accent and insight to the verse.

An example of her poetry is You Know:

"I smile and say,
"Oh, it's all O.K."
Lovingly, firmly,
With a knowledge
Unknown to my
Damaged emotions,
You reply,
"I know it's O.K."
Then I believe it.

Although this is Carolyn Goodall's first book of poetry she is already at work on another. "I've been bitten," she confessed, "and now I have the fever! I'm positively jumping with ideas, in addition to the exhileration of seeing my name on a book of my own for the first time!"

Goodall is a long-time resident of the Monterey Peninsula where she lives with her husband and three daughters.

Folksinger Katie Lee in Big Sur Sunday

Folksinger Katie Lee will present a concert of folksongs Sunday, Sept. 12 at 2:30 p.m. in the garden of the Henry Miller Memorial Library in Big Sur.

Katie Lee is internationally known for her interpretation of cowboy songs and her knowledge of Western lore. She has appeared nationwide in one-woman shows and folk festivals. Sponsored by the National Humanities Series and the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, she has toured 36 states giving workshops, seminars and performances.

During her 40-year career, she also produced a film on the vanishing American cowboy, The Last Wagon, which won the Cine Golden Eagle Award, and a book on the cowboy, Ten Thousand Goddam Cattle, which covers three generations of cowboys and cowboy songs.

Burl Ives called her, "the best cowboy singer I have ever heard and I have heard a million of them." Poet Carl Sandburg wrote Katie Lee: "Few singers are as good 'skollars' as you and vice-versa. You are, in my album, a true folk song artist and a fine vaudevillian. Every good wish."

The Henry Miller Memorial Library was established in 1981 through the generosity of Emil White of Big Sur. A close friend of the late writer, White donated his home and land to the Big Sur Land Trust to create a library which features the works of Miller, his friends, and other Big Sur writers.

A donation of $2 is requested; proceeds of the concert will benefit the Miller Library. The library is located on the east side of Highway 1, a short distance south of the Nepenthe Restaurant. For further information phone 625-5523.

FOLKSINGER Katie Lee will appear in concert Sunday, Sept. 12 at 2:30 p.m. at the Henry Miller Memorial Library in Big Sur. The concert is a benefit for the library which features the works of Miller and his literary contemporaries.

Amateur golf zone tourney

The top 21 four-man teams from Northern California will converge on Spyglass Hill Golf Course in Pebble Beach Thursday and Friday, Sept. 9-10 for the Northern California Golf Association's Zone Playoff Championship.

All teams have qualified for the prestigious event by placing in the top three of their respective regional zone tournament. The Zone Playoff marks the culmination of the four-man team play season which began in March.

Play will begin Thursday at 8 a.m. off tees one and 10. Friday's play will commence with an 8:30 a.m. shotgun start.

Defending champion, Rancho Del Rey, of Atwater, will not be on hand this year; the team failed to qualify earlier in the San Joaquin Zone Tournament.

Dr. John Rhodenbaugh, president of NCGA, from Castlewood Country Club, is chairman of the event.

The championship is open to the public. There is a $4 gate fee

Backgammon

Disperse your men

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You, White, roll 5-3 in the diagrammed position. How do you play it?

Probably your first impulse is to move your blot to the safety of your 8-point. If this kind of move appeals to you, don't play for anything more valuable than peanuts.

Begin your move by taking the five with the blot, landing on your 11-point. Which three do you like from this position?

You'll want to move from your 8-point to your 5-point rather than pile a fifth man on the 8-point. This move leaves a blot on your 11-point, but Black can hit you from the 1-point only with 6-4; and from the 4-point with 6-1, 5-2, or 4-3—only eight of the 36 possible rolls of the dice.

If you're going to leave a blot, do it while Black has a mediocre home board, including a blot. If you're hit three or four moves from now, Black may have so good a board that you'll have great trouble reentering.

A builder on your 5-point gives you a better chance of making additional points in your home board. And leaving a builder on your 11-point gives you a better chance of making your bar point.

Would you like to have Alfred Sheinwold teach you how to play backgammon? A 12-lesson booklet will be on the way to you when you send $1 plus a stamped, self-addressed, No. 10 envelope to Backgammon, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

NAVAJO RUG is one of the examples of Navajo textiles to be shown this month at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, 559 Pacific Street, Monterey.

Textile, painting, jewelry exhibits open this weekend at MP Museum of Art

Three new exhibits will open at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Friday, Sept. 10 and remain on view through Oct. 31.

Paintings by Genevieve Edwards, winner of the 1981 Monterey County Art Competition, will be exhibited. The focus of her show will be homage to the 800th anniversary of the birth of Saint Francis of Assisi.

The 20th century is the most exciting period of growth and development of quality and style in the field of Navajo textiles. Following a decline in weaving during the last half of the 19th century, a new era in weaving emerged precipated by white traders who created modern regional styles.

The exhibit at the museum will consist of 20th century textiles — rugs, wall hangings and tapestries. Margaret Adams is curator of the show.

In conjunction with the textile exhibit, a small exhibit of representational jewelry art from the New Mexico tribes of Navajo, Zuni and Santo Domingo pueblo Indians will be shown.

Children the world over depict their surroundings in various media. Embroideries By the Children of Peru, sponsored by the Peruvian Embassy, presents Peruvian children's views in a unique form.

Gaily colored and imaginative embroideries illustrate their environment. Photographs and a text panel relate the history of the project, first suggested by a Peace Corps officer working in the village of Chijnaya.

The children, six to 16 years old, were provided with unbleached woolen cloth and colored yarn and shown basic embroidery stitches. They then let their imagination guide them in designing embroideries.

The museum is at 559 Pacific St., Monterey. For further information phone 372-7591.

Red Skelton the (painter) comedian to show his work in Carmel gallery

20th Century Masters art gallery, Mission between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel, has announced the addition of comedian Red Skelton to their roster of artists — comedian Red Skelton.

Skelton, an accomplished artist, paints in oils, and often uses clowns as his subjects. Clowns "reach the depth of a person's soul," Skelton feels. He was born into a circus family two months after the death of his father who had been a clown with the Haggenbach and Wallace traveling shows.

He was raised by his mother, surrounded by the love of the circus people who were to become his first real family. His childhood left an imprint on him that he would carry throughout his life, and helped him bring happiness and laughter to millions.

In addition to his television and motion picture career, Skelton has written numerous musical compositions including 64 symphonies, four of which have been recorded by the London Philharmonic. Skelton has also written many short stories and full-length books.

20 Century Masters will also soon show the work of another famous performer, incomparable mime Marcel Marceau. Since 1947, Marceau, through the character called Bip, has stepped onto stages across the world to express one man's vision of life's illusions and realities.

"Bip, my pale alter ego, enters amidst the battlefield of life and throws with his hand those invisible visions he has carried onto empty stages all over the world. His heart is full of a thousand remembrances, compensations and tender, silent love," Marceau has written of his art.

Bip has made the transformation from stage to art in a series of lithographs, hand-signed and numbered and presented in portfolio with text by the artist.

Volunteers are needed now

School starts Sept. 8. Volunteers In Action (VIA), a community service group, feels now is the time for meaningful use of those extra hours that will result when the children resume their schedules. The community has a great need for volunteers. The following are just a few of the opportunites available:

Be a leader or co-leader for an area Scout troop.

Volunteer drivers are needed. This placement offers an opportunity to assist different people at various times. Mileage reimbursement is offered.

Assist professional caseworkers. Provide counseling in emergency situations. Times are flexible.

Handypersons are needed for various chores.

Volunteers In Action also needs volunteers for its own for their Skillsbank. Can you type? Keep books? Play the piano? Do artwork? These short-term, once-in-a-while assignments are an important part of VIA's community service.

Anyone who is able to volunteer should phone 373-6177 or drop by the VIA office at 444 Pearl Street, Suite A-26, Monterey.

Artichoke Festival this weekend

The 23rd annual Artichoke Festival will be staged in Castroville, north of the Monterey Peninsula, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 11-12.

Artichokes were first cultivated in Italy around the middle of the 15th century. The edible thistle gradually spread to other parts of Europe and to the United States through French settlers in Louisiana and Spaniards in California. It was first cultivated commercially in Castroville in 1921. Thus began the industry that has made Castroville "the artichoke capital of the world".

Highlights of Saturday's activities are the 10-K race, arts and crafts fair, continuous music and entertainment from 10 a.m. by Shanachie, Jam Pak and Mike Noonan; the selection and crowning of the new Artichoke Queen and a dance which follows at the Castroville Community Center.

Sunday's events will begin at 6 a.m. and include a parade, chicken barbeque, artichoke food specialties, fela market, arts and crafts fair, as well as continuous music and entertainment.

Events both days also include carnival games, contests, face painting and an artichoke throw.

Castroville is located approximately 22 miles north of Carmel.

Admission to the Artichoke Festival is free and the public is welcome. For further information, phone 1-633-CHOK.

FISHERMAN'S WHARF will come alive Sunday, Sept. 12 when the traditional Santa Rosalia Festival is celebrated. Colorful boats full of people gather to watch the blessing of the fleet. Activities begin at 10 a.m. with a parade on Webster Street in Monterey.

Santa Rosalia Festival to be celebrated Sunday with full day of activities

The traditional Santa Rosalia Festival, sponsored by the Italian Heritage Society of the Monterey Peninsula, will be celebrated Sunday, Sept. 12 with a full day of activities. Santa Rosalia is the patron saint of Sicilian fishermen.

A lively morning parade with floats, bands and marching units will start at 10 a.m. on Webster Street in Monterey and make its way through downtown Monterey to the Custom House Plaza near Fisherman's Wharf. The newly-installed Most Reverend Bishop Thaddeus Shubsda will celebrate an outdoor Mass at 11 a.m.

Following the Mass, at approximately noon, a procession will form and proceed through Old Fisherman's Wharf. Fisherman wearing traditional tasseled stocking caps will carry the statue of Santa Rosalia to the end of the Wharf, where Bishop Shubsda will embark on a fishing boat to ask blessings on the fishing fleet and boats in the harbor.

The Queen of the Santa Rosalia Festival will lay a wreath of flowers on the ocean in memory of fishermen who have died at sea. Following the blessing of the fleet, entertainment and Italian foods, including pizza, spaghetti, fried squid, cannoli and other delicacies will be offered from 12:30-6 p.m..

Entertainment will include vocal groups, live bands and dancing. There is no admission to the festival. Food and souvenirs will be available for a charge.

The festival is preceded Saturday, Sept. 11 with the annual Festival Ball, a semi-formal dinner dance during which the new Festival Queen is selected and crowned. The ball will be given in the new San Carlos Cathedral Hall. No-host cocktails begin at 6:30 p.m., the dinner and coronation at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $30 per person.

For further information, phone 646-5734 or 625-3572.

French, Russian films to be screened

Films from France and Russia will be shown this week as part of the fall schedule of the Monterey Peninsula Film Society.

Cousin Cousine is a love story with a twist. As the title indicates, the film is the story of two cousins. However, they are cousins by marriage whose friendship develops into a full-blown love affair. Their respective spouses and families look on in dismay as the relationship progresses.

Judith Crist called Cousin Cousine, "one of those rare delights you want to see again and again. A feel good movie."

Starring the gorgeous and talented Marie-Christine Barrault and Marie-France Pisier.

Cousin Cousine will screen at 8:15 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10-12.

Twelve Chairs is a comedy set in post-revolutionary Russia where three conmen/fortune hunters try to track down jewelry hidden in one of 12 chairs that have been sent to four corners of the Soviet Union by the new government.

"A wonderful Russian comedy, satirical and outrageous," Sight and Sound praised the film.

Twelve Chairs will screen at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 15.

Both films will be shown in the Morse Auditorium, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. Admission is $3.50 general and $2.75 for students, seniors, military personnel and $2 for members of the film society and children. For more information, phone 659-4795.

Volunteer training offered

The YWCA Domestic Violence Crisis Line will offer volunteer training beginning Tuesday, Sept. 14. The YWCA crisis line (formerly Women Against Domestic Violence) is operated by volunteers who serve 12 hour shifts weekly, answering calls from their own homes. While they participate in other activities, the volunteers may use a paging device like those used by doctors.

The crisis line training sessons will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6-9 p.m. at the YWCA in Monterey. Topics to be covered are: History of Family Violence, Psychology of Domestic Violence, Legal Remedies and Crisis Intervention Techniques.

Women over 18 not currently involved in a domestic crisis may be trained to go on the crisis line, work in the shelter or assist in public speaking. Men over 18 may be trained to volunteer with the shelter, assist in community education or act as advocates for men requesting a male volunteer.

The 24-hour crisis line service handles more than 700 calls a year. Crisis line volunteers meet with victims of domestic violence in hospitals and police stations 24 hours a day. They also assist with intake evaluations for shelter clients.

For further information, phone 649-0834.

Wall rug sale for Tjader fund

A series of handwoven wall rugs created by local artist Patti Kreider in honor of the late jazz vibraphonist, Cal Tjader, will be auctioned through silent bid, with the profits from the auction to be donated to the Cal Tjader Memorial Scholarship Fund. The nine wall rugs will be on display at the Kelley Gallery, Doubletree Mall, One Portola Plaza, Monterey Sept. 11-15.

A reception for the artist is planned Monday, Sept. 13 from 5-7 p.m.

The nine commemorative weavings will also be on display as a backdrop on the outdoor stage of the small arena at the Monterey County Fairgrounds throughout the three days of the Monterey Jazz Festival, Sept. 17-19, and during the gala preview concert Sept. 16.

'New Play Series' to launch new Cherry Hall

The Carl Cherry Foundation has renovated Cherry Hall, located at Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel. The hall now has a larger stage, better lighting and more comfortable seating; all in time for their New Play Series.

The New Play Series will open its season with Hello and Goodbye by South African playwright Athol Fugard. The play will run Saturday and Sunday for four weekends beginning Sept. 17.

Hello and Goodbye is the story of a brother and sister working out their past. The presence of their father (who may or may not be dead) hangs over the production. The play has been described as a "strong, psychological drama."

The goal of the Cherry Foundation is to "get people into language, get them excited about it," artistic director Dan Gotch said. He hopes that if people see a new play that makes them "feel something" they will attend more plays, including those that deal with more contemporary issues.

Stephen Moorer, who appeared in recent Monterey Peninsula Shakespeare Festival productions of Taming of the Shrew and Merchant of Venice at Monterey Peninsula College, is the production manager for the New Play Series at Cherry Hall.

Other plays to be performed are Shadow Box by Michael Cristofer; Ghosts by John O'Keefe; an Irish Gala, adapted by Gotch; and Home by David Storey.

Guaranteed seating for the four-play series is available in advance by a tax-deductible minimum donation of $10 per person to the Cherry Foundation. This is a $10 savings over the regular admission donation asked at the door.

For further information, phone 624-7491.

Carmel Point

Approached through a courtyard at the rear of a walled site running street-to-street to face Scenic Road, this spacious shaked-roofed, frame residence with unobstructed sea, shore and Point Lobos view was constructed by Comstock Associates and designed to complement a superb site by Will Shaw, AIA.

The wood in high, beamed ceiling and wall paneling harmonizes with polished, plank flooring in the living room with a fireplace. Similar ceiling and floor treatment are found in the dining room and the master suite with compartmented bath/dressing area. Completing the lower level are another bedroom and bath suite, dramatic entry with a pebble mosaic floor and a kitchen planned for cooking pleasure and featuring a wealth of cabinets and counters, built-in desk, two sinks, a pantry and a cleverly concealed laundry facility.

A handsome staircase in the entry leads to the upper level containing this bedroom with beamed wood ceiling, a plank floor and sliding glass doors to a deck. An adjacent bathroom, and a fourth bedroom, or den, also are on this floor. A detached double garage and a parking court add to desirability of this pleasing property protected by a security system and in a prestigious Carmel Point location. $875,000.

You owe your horse--and yourself-- the good life at Rancho Laureles

SOUND, PROFESSIONAL horse care begins with safe, comfortable accommodations and a high-quality feeding program at Rancho Laureles.

Our deluxe new barn offers the ultimate in luxury, safety and comfort. Each 12 x 12 box stall opens onto a securely fenced 24-foot paddock. Inside, all stalls have foot-cushioning rubber mats, automatic waterers and feeders. Stall fronts and sliding doors have heavy-gauge mesh so the horse benefits from good air circulation and seeing what's going on, while he is prevented from hanging his head over the door and possibly fussing with passing horses or people.

Walls between stalls are solid, so there's no rivalry with the horse next door. And all edges are reinforced with metal anti-chew strips. There's even a convenient blanket rack on each stall door.

Two spacious tack rooms are convenient to all stalls and offer individual tack lockers for each patron.

Of course, our old barn has a charm all its own, with oversized, exceptionally airy stalls and the same large adjoining paddocks. A large new wash rack with hot water to pamper your horse is right outside.

WHERE WE RIDE

Our two securely-fenced riding arenas offer excellent, well-drained sand footing. One measures 135 x 325 and is used for basic schooling as well as jumping. Our new 150 x 275 foot arena includes a regulation dressage court with plenty of room to spare!

And our 75-foot round lungeing arena is proving useful not only for lungeing, but for working green horses or beginning riders who profit from the secure surroundings.

The half-mile sand track that encircles our easterly fields is a perfect place to warm up a horse (or cool him out after a workout), leg up for an event or simply trot a few miles as good exercise.

Then there's Garland Park with its 541 acres of trails, plus the adjoining trails through to Robinson Canyon and the soon-to-be-opened new parkland to the east — a trailrider's paradise, uniquely beautiful every day of the year.

THE FINEST CARE

Now, more than ever, we believe that our feeding program pays off. Our 17% protein alfalfa hay cubes put weight on even rundown, skinny horses and keep it there.

We are also pleased to work with two of Monterey County's finest veterinarians and an excellent farrier, who all contribute to your horse's overall health and well-being.

LESSONS, ANYONE?

Whether you're just learning to post or have a specific problem over fences or in dressage, Doug Downing, our knowledgeable and very personable instructor, will come up with an answer.

He is available for private, semi-private or small group lessons on the flat or over fences.

GOOD COMPANY

One of the nicest things about Rancho Laureles is its relaxed, informal atmosphere. People tend to linger, and that makes us feel good, because it means they like it here. After a ride, they'll sit around, enjoy a cup of coffee or a soft drink and chat — mostly about horses, of course, but not always. Real friendships have grown among our riders.

But best of all, newcomers are made to feel genuinely welcome, whether they're nervous beginners or old pros. There's always a helping hand and a generous sprinkling of advice, and you feel you "belong" right from the start.

Seeing is believing! Why not drive out into the Carmel Valley sunshine to pay us a visit?
